[Release No. 34-49382; File No. SR-OPRA-2004-01]

Options Price Reporting Authority; Notice of Filing and Immediate Effectiveness of Amendment to OPRA Plan Regarding Device-Based and Enterprise Rate Professional Subscriber Fees Charged by OPRA in Respect of Its Basic Service and Its FCO Service

March 9, 2004.

Pursuant to Section 11A of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act")¹ and Rule 11Aa3-2 thereunder,² notice is hereby given that on February 25, 2004, the Options Price Reporting Authority ("OPRA")³ submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") an amendment to the Plan for Reporting of Consolidated Options Last Sale Reports and Quotation Information ("OPRA Plan"). The proposed OPRA Plan amendment would revise device-based and Enterprise Rate professional subscriber fees charged by OPRA in respect of its Basic Service and FCO Service. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments from interested persons on the proposed OPRA Plan amendment.

I. Description and Purpose of the Amendment

The purpose of the proposed amendment to OPRA's national market system plan is to make incremental changes to the device-based and Enterprise Rate professional subscriber fees charged by OPRA in respect of its Basic Service and FCO Service over a four-year period commencing in 2004. By January 1, 2007, every professional subscriber would be subject to the same Basic Service device-based fee and the same FCO Service device-based fee, or elect to pay the Basic Service Enterprise Rate fee as an alternative to the Basic Service device-based fee at a rate per registered representative that is more closely aligned to the uniform device-based rate. OPRA's Basic Service consists of market data and related information pertaining to equity and index options. OPRA's FCO Service consists of this same information pertaining to foreign currency options. As a result of these changes, by the beginning of 2007, OPRA would have eliminated all distinctions in the device fees paid by professional subscribers based on the subscriber's status as a member or nonmember of an exchange that is a party to the OPRA Plan, as well as distinctions in the per-device fee based on the total number of OPRA-enabled devices of each professional subscriber.

The annual incremental changes to OPRA's professional subscriber fees proposed to be made over a four year period, including the changes to be made at the beginning of the fourth year when all device-based fees would be the same for all professional subscribers, are estimated by OPRA to increase total OPRA revenues derived from these fees by approximately 5% each year. This would be at or below the rate at which OPRA has increased professional subscriber fees in the past. Since Professional Subscribers currently pay device-based fees at different rates depending on their status as members or nonmembers of exchanges and on the number of devices through which they access OPRA information, in one or more of the four years during which these distinctions are being phased out, some Professional Subscribers would see their fees increase by more than the 5% average, although a greater number of Professional Subscribers would actually see their OPRA fees decrease. Professional subscribers are persons who subscribe to OPRA Information and do not qualify for the reduced fees charged to nonprofessional subscribers.

The elimination from OPRA's device-based professional subscriber fees of both the member and nonmember distinction and the volume discount is intended to make OPRA's rate structure simpler and fairer in light of continuing changes in communications and computer technology as well as in the structure of exchanges and in the nature of exchange membership. All of these combine to make these distinctions no longer useful. OPRA proposes to phase in the elimination of these fee distinctions over a four-year period in order to avoid making too great a change to the fees paid by any one professional subscriber in a single year.

The 5% annual increase in OPRA revenues estimated to result from these proposed fee changes is needed to defray the ever-increasing costs incurred by OPRA in collecting, processing, and disseminating options market data. These costs have increased over the past several years on account of the expansion of options trading and the introduction of new services, such as OPRA's BBO service that was introduced in 2003. OPRA's costs are expected to continue to increase over the next four years in light of anticipated continued growth in the number of messages that OPRA would be required to handle as a result of the entry of new options exchanges and the expansion of trading on existing exchanges, and changes in the trading and quoting methodologies used by OPRA's exchanges that are expected to increase significantly the number of individual quotes generated by each exchange.

The text of the proposed Professional Subscriber Fee Schedule is set forth below.
