Exemption

The restrictions of sections 406(a) and 406(b)(2) of the Act shall not apply to a loan (the Loan), in the amount of $750,000, to the Plan, to serve as permanent financing for a training facility (the Training Facility) constructed by the Plan, by the Local No. 367 of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry of the United States and Canada (Local No. 367), a party in interest with respect to the Plan. This exemption is subject to the following conditions:

(a) The Plan does not pay any commissions, fees, or other expenses with respect to this transaction, except certain specified third party closing costs;

(b) An independent, qualified fiduciary (the I/F), after analyzing the terms of the Loan, determines that such Loan is in the best interests of the Plan and its participants and beneficiaries;

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption under section 408(a) of the Act and/or section 4975(c)(2) of the Code does not relieve a fiduciary or other party in interest or disqualified person from certain other provisions to which the exemption does not apply and the general fiduciary responsibility provisions of section 404 of the Act, which among other things require a fiduciary to discharge his duties respecting the plan solely in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan and in a prudent fashion in accordance with section 404(a)(1)(B) of the Act; nor does it affect the requirement of section 401(a) of the Code that the plan must operate for the exclusive benefit of the employees of the employer maintaining the plan and their beneficiaries;

(2) This exemption is supplemental to and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act and/or the Code, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transactional rules. Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption is not dispositive of whether the transaction is in fact a prohibited transaction; and

(3) The availability of this exemption is subject to the express condition that the material facts and representations contained in the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction which is the subject of the exemption.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Employment and Training Administration (ETA) is soliciting comments regarding data collection for the impact evaluation of the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program, reauthorized and amended in 2002. The evaluation, begun in January 2004, was motivated by enactment of new TAA legislation and is part of a planned cycle of evaluations in response to the Program Assessment Rating Tool reviews by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The TAA evaluation is intended to generate information that will be useful in responding to programmatic issues and in developing administrative guidance, technical assistance, and legislative or budgetary proposals.

The TAA program provides training, income support, and other reemployment and supportive services to workers who lose their jobs or have their work hours or salary reduced because of increased imports or shifts in production to foreign countries. The Trade Adjustment Assistance Reform Act of 2002 (Pub. L. 107-210) reauthorized the TAA program for five years and amended the prior law in a number of ways. It consolidated TAA and the North American Free Trade Agreement Transitional Adjustment Assistance programs into a single program, broadened eligibility to include secondarily affected workers, and created two new benefits: the Health Coverage Tax Credit (HCTC) and Alternative TAA for eligible workers 50 years old and above. The new law also included provisions to change how the program is administered, such as the requirement that states must ensure that rapid response assistance and appropriate core and intensive services are made available.

The primary focus of the evaluation of the TAA program is to understand how TAA benefits and training services affect the employment and earnings of participants. In order to estimate these net impacts, outcomes of two groups of TAA participants will be compared to outcomes of two statistically matched comparison groups of Unemployment Insurance (UI) recipients. This quasi-experimental approach will require extensive information on demographic and personal characteristics as well as on programmatic experiences of both TAA participants and the comparison group. This information will be gleaned from state TAA and UI administrative records and from baseline and follow-up surveys of individuals in the treatment and comparison groups.

Finally, to understand how various program and administrative practices affect TAA performance, including the various types of collaboration and administrative arrangements through which TAA operates in the One-Stop Career Center system under the Workforce Investment Act (WIA), information will be gleaned from site visits to states and localities and from a survey of all local TAA programs.

Administrative records will be requested from a sample of up to 25 states (randomly selected proportionate to size). These records will include: (1) Rosters of TAA-eligible workers to be used for selecting samples of workers; (2) UI and Trade Readjustment Allowance claims data to measure claims amounts and draw the comparison-group sample; (3) UI wage records to measure pre-separation and post-separation employment and earnings for those in the treatment and comparison groups; and (4) TAA and WIA participant files to measure participant characteristics and service use. The baseline and follow-up surveys will be used to supplement information available from the administrative records by adding information about demographic and household characteristics, reasons for participating (or not participating) in services, services received, training outcomes, methods of job search, and employment history before and after the job separation. The survey will be administered by telephone in 2006 to a randomly selected sample of approximately 10,000 workers, divided between those in the TAA treatment and comparison groups. Smaller but still substantial numbers will be re-interviewed 15 and 30 months after the initial baseline survey.

Six rounds of site visits to states and localities will be conducted during the course of the evaluation, including those for the already completed Initial Implementation Study (that explored implementation of key reform elements in the 2002 legislation). The depth of information from the site visits will be complemented by a breadth of information to be collected from a local survey to be administered in 2006. This local survey will be administered nationwide to local One-Stop Career Centers with substantial TAA activity to elicit information about general issues of TAA operations, including the types of TAA services provided, program integration within the One-Stop system, recruitment efforts for the TAA program, and the timeliness of early-intervention activities, among other issues.

II. Desired Focus of Comments

Currently, ETA is soliciting comments concerning data collection for the five-year TAA evaluation that:

(a) Evaluate whether the proposed collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information will have practical utility;

(b) Evaluate the accuracy of the agency's estimate of the burden of the proposed collection of information, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;

(c) Enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and

(d) Minimize the burden of the collection of information on those who are to respond, including through the use of appropriate automated, electronic, mechanical, or other technological collection techniques or other forms of information technology, e.g., permitting electronic submissions of responses.

A copy of material relating to the proposed information collection request (ICR) can be obtained by contacting the office listed above in the addressee section of this notice. Items that can be obtained include: (1) The proposed "supporting statement" which describes the purpose, methodology, and respondent burdens of the evaluation, (2) a technical appendix that includes mathematical formulas regarding statistical aspects of the evaluation, (3) instruments for the baseline and follow-up surveys of the comparison and treatment groups, (4) site visit protocols for state and local visits, and (5) the instrument for the survey of local areas.
