On August 2, 2004, EPA published a notice of availability of the Draft National Guidance: Best Management Practices for Preparing Vessels Intended to Create Artificial Reefs for public comment. See section I.B. of today's notice for information about viewing these public comments and EPA's response to comments document.

III. Today's Action

Today's notice announces the availability of the final BMP guidance. This final guidance reflects the input of the Federal workgroup and public comments received on the Draft National Guidance: Best Management Practices for Preparing Vessels Intended to Create Artificial Reefs (60 FR 46141). The guidance describes guidelines for the preparation of obsolete and decommissioned military and commercial vessels in a manner that is intended to help ensure that the marine environment will benefit from their use as an artificial reef. The guidance identifies materials or categories of materials of concern that may be present aboard vessels, indicates where these materials may be found, and briefly describes their potential adverse impacts if released into the marine environment. The materials of concern include: Fuels and oil, asbestos, polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs), paints, debris (e.g., vessel debris, floatables, introduced material), and other materials of environmental concern (e.g., mercury, refrigerants). For each material or category of material of concern identified, the guidance provides a general clean-up performance goal and information on methods for attaining those clean-up goals when preparing a vessel prior to sinking. Achieving the clean-up performance goals provided in this guidance, coupled with strategic reef site selection, will help maximize the environmental benefits of using vessels as artificial reefs.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. General Information

A. Does this Action Apply to Me?

This action is directed to the public in general. As such, the Agency has not attempted to describe the specific entities that this action may apply to. Although others may be affected, this action applies directly to the submitter of the premanufacture notices addressed in the action.
