Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service

Title: Cooperative Agreement for Field Trials and Research Projects for the Advancement of the National Animal ID System (NAIS).

OMB Control Number: 0579-NEW.

Summary of Collection: The Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) regulates the importation and interstate movement of animals and animal products and conducts various other activities to protect the health of our Nation's livestock and poultry. The goal of the NAIS is to be able to identify all animals and premises that have had contact with a foreign or domestic animal disease of concern within 48 hours after discovery. The implementation of the NAIS continues to progress. The first priority has been to get each state operational on premises registration. This will allow producers across the entire country to participate in the NAIS. APHIS will solicit application from State and Tribal government that outline NAIS field trails and research projects that address problems or questions related to NAIS implementation. The information provided on the applications will be used to determine which projects and research receives USDA funding as well as how much funding is received.

Need and Use of the Information: The advent of increased animal disease outbreaks around the globe over the past decade, especially the recent BSE-positive cow found in Washington State, has intensified the public interest in developing a national animal identification program for the purpose of protecting animal health. Fundamental to controlling any disease threat, foreign or domestic, to the Nation's animal resources is to have a system that can identify individual animals or groups, the premises where they are located, and the date of entry to each premises. APHIS initiated implementation of a national animal identification system (NAIS) in 2004. In order to develop and implement an effective national animal identification system, APHIS needs the cooperation of States and industry. The cooperative agreements that APHIS will fund as a result of the information collected on the applications will help ensure stakeholder input and will also help in troubleshooting problems that might arise as NAIS continues to develop.
