GPO PARTNERSHIP MEANS MILLIONS FOR PRINTERS ACROSS THE COUNTRY

GPO Releases Top Ten Printers List

WASHINGTON, D.C.-America's private sector printers, through a partnership with the U.S. Government Printing Office, play a vital role in the production of government information products and, in fact, manufacture the majority of such products. Today, the GPO released the top ten printers for the first quarter of calendar year 2005.

"We are very proud of the fact that GPO has one of the most successful and cost-effective procurement programs in the Federal Government. Last year we contracted work out to more than 2,500 printers all over the United States, about 90 percent of our printing needs," said Bruce James, Public Printer of the United States. "The partnership with the printing community ensures the public is getting the information regarding the work of our Government in a timely manner and at the best possible value for the taxpayer."

GPO's top ten printers list for the first quarter of calendar year 2005 is below:

The GPO's main mission is to ensure the American public has access to government information. The GPO is the Federal Government's primary centralized resource for gathering, cataloging, producing, providing, authenticating, and preserving published U.S. Government information in all its forms. GPO is responsible for the production and distribution of information products and services for all three branches of the Federal Government. In addition to its sales program, GPO makes government information available to the public through GPO Access (www.gpoaccess.gov) at no cost, and through partnership with more than 1,250 libraries nationwide participating in the Federal Depository Library Program.
