Halloween	Each year, on the last night of October, millions of children across the U.S dress up in costumes and take to the streets for a spooky dose of “trick or treat” fun. Few people really know the history behind this haunted holiday. Halloween's origins date back to ancient Europe, when people commemorated the end of summer and the harvest and the beginning of the dark, cold winter, a time of year that was often associated with human death. It was believed that the disembodied spirits of all those who had died throughout the preceding year would come back in search of living bodies to possess for the next year. Naturally the living did not want to be possessed so they would dress up in all manner of ghoulish costumes and noisily paraded around the neighborhood, being as destructive as possible in order to frighten away spirits looking for bodies to possess. Many Halloween rituals practiced today such as wearing masks, costumes and burning bonfires can be traced back to the ceremonies performed in the old days. However, Halloween no longer carries any significant ceremonial meaning but has turned into a night of light-hearted play for young children and a time to celebrate the change of season from summer to fall. Halloween is a holiday of beautiful fall colors. People decorate their front yards and doorsteps with pumpkins of various sizes with various shades of orange. Jack-lanterns are made by carving faces into a pumpkins and placing a burning candle inside to glow on Halloween night. Along with the pumpkins, you will also find decorations with haystacks, scarecrows and flowers that bloom in the fall. Little kids look forward to Halloween because they can dress up in costumes, which triggers a great amount of imagination and anticipation. They also love to walk from house to house to collect candy. They say “trick or treat” when they knock on the door. They get some treats from each visit and before long they are carrying a big basket of candy that will last for months!
Fall Festivals	Throughout the United States, special annual celebrations, or festivals, are held during the autumn months. Many of these events have a central theme and provide an opportunity for large numbers of people to come together and participate in variety of fun activities. The National Storytelling Festival held every October in Jonesborough, Tennessee is a favorite for story lovers. For 3 days, tents and seating are set up in downtown Jonesborough for audiences to watch and hear imaginative tales and characters come to life as told by skilled storytellers from all over the world. This 30-year old event is considered one of the top storytelling festivals in North America. Another 30-year old fall festival is the Annual Half Moon Bay Pumpkin Festival, in California. For 3 days, festival goers can visit a rustic pumpkin patch, hear music, buy arts and crafts, participate in pumpkin pie-eating and pumpkin carving contests, and see the winner of the pumpkin weigh-off where the winner gets a prize of $5 per pound for the heaviest pumpkin. Some entries have weighed over 1,000 pounds! One fall event you’re likely to find in every state is a state fair that can last anywhere from a week to a month. Most fairs have rides like those found in amusement parks as well as refreshments like cotton candy, candy apples and popcorn. You can visit the exhibit halls, see livestock competition, play games of skill and chance and hear all types of live music.
