Intro shot

Ping and Lu are on the phone and both are very excited.

Music up
Ping	I am so excited. I am going to Washington, D.C.!
Lu	I am excited, too. You are coming to visit me. You will meet my family.
Ping	What can we do in Washington, D.C.?
Lu	There are so many things...We can...go bowling!
Ping	That would be nice. Ella told me about Washington, D.C. I want to visit the famous places.
Lu	Yes...well...there are....Shannon!
Ping	Excuse me?
Lu	I am calling Shannon. She can tell you about the places in Washington, D.C.
Shannon appears behind Lu's shoulder – Ping is looking confused.
Lu	Would you answer Ping's question for me?
Shannon	Sure.
Shannon takes the phone, a cordless, and sits back down at the computer (where she had been working. Go to Shannon and Ping in the split screen.
Shannon	Hello, Ping.
Ping	Hello, Shannon. I am very excited. I am coming to Washington to visit. What can we do in Washington?
Shannon	There are so many things to do! There are monuments and museums. There are terrific restaurants and great shops.
Ping	Is there a zoo? I enjoy going to zoos.
Shannon	There is an excellent zoo here. It is the Smithsonian's National Zoo, and it is wonderful! It is open every day. The hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. They have a panda from China!
Ping	That sounds great.
Shannon	Yes. We could also see a parade. There is a big one on Wednesday.
Ping	Excuse me. I don't understand. What is parade?
Shannon	Oh! A parade is celebration on the street. There are floats. There are marching bands. People line up on the street and watch as it goes by.

Ping	That sounds interesting. Are there any art museums?
Shannon	Oh, yes. There are lots of art museums here.
Ping	Great. I want to see all of the art museums.
Shannon	Oh! (laughs) There are too many to see in one trip! The National Gallery of Art has two huge buildings. It would take all day to really see it.
Ping	oh. I did not know.
Shannon	The other museums are all over the city. There a big area called The Mall. It has a lot of museums around it. The National Gallery of Art is just one of them.
Ping	Okay. I'd like to see all of those museums. Are there museum about different cultures?
Shannon	The Mall is a big place! There are too many museums to see in one visit. However, two of them have great displays on different cultures. The National Museum of American History has information about the many cultures in the United States.
Ping	If there are too many museums to see in one visit, which ones should we go to see?
Shannon	We could go to The National Museum of Natural History. It has cultural displays from all over the world. It also has dinosaur bones, stuffed elephants, and a giant diamond!
Ping	Wow! Is the White House in Washington, D.C.?
Shannon	Yes it is. It is near The Mall. There are many historical buildings in Washington. There are also many monuments. You could see most of the monuments in one trip. However, there are too many to see in one day. So, what do you want to do?
Ping	I don't know. I need more information. I think you are right. There is too much to see! I'd like to see the president, too.
Shannon	You probably won't see him. He is very busy, and he travels with a lot of security people. However, we could see some statues of presidents.
Ping	Are they interesting?
Shannon	Sure. There is a huge statue of President Lincoln at the Lincoln Memorial. It is very impressive.

Ping	I don't know how to choose. Where should we go? Is there a good guide book about Washington?
Shannon	There are many guidebooks. However, you can get a lot of information from the Internet. I have an idea. I am sitting at the computer right now. I'll send you the links to some good websites.
Shannon	Then, you'll have more information. The Smithsonian link is really interesting. The National Park Service link is also good.
Ping	Okay. That would be nice.
Shannon	Lu and I will call you tomorrow. You can tell us your choices, and we can make the final plans.
Ping	Okay
Shannon	Talk to you tomorrow. Goodbye.
Ping	Thank you, Shannon. I'll talk to you and Lu tomorrow.
Music up		Scene closes with Ping is looking at the camera with a smile
End of Set Up-Robot
Gizmo	Ping needs to learn more about things to do in Washington DC, so she can plan her trip. There are many things to learn about. Will you help her?

GRAMMAR LINKS
Could	“Could” is a modal verb. Modal verbs are used to express ideas such as possibility, intention, obligation and necessity. Other modal verbs are can, may, might, must, ought to, should, will and would. When Shannon says to Ping, “We could go to The National Museum of Natural History,” she is suggesting that visiting the museum is one of many things to do while they are in Washington, D.C.
Is there	“Is” and “are” are both third person present tense forms of the verb “to be.” In a question beginning with “Is there ... ?” or “Are there ... ?” “there” functions as a pronoun (a “dummy” subject) in an impersonal construction. The real subject follows the dummy subject. Use “is” when the real subject is singular (one) and “are” when the real subject is plural (more than one). For example, Ping asks “ Is there a zoo? ” (singular) and “ Are there any art museums? ” (plural)

too many (museums) to see	“Too” is an adverb that in this case means “to a higher degree than is desirable, permissible, or possible.” Adverbs often function as intensifiers, conveying a greater or lesser emphasis to something. When “too” is combined with the adjective “many,” the speaker is expressing a very large number. Consider this sentence: “There are many things to see in one visit.” Shannon is explaining to Ping that they will have numerous choices of things to see in one visit, but not so many that they won’t be able to see them all. Then consider this sentence: “There are too many things to see in one visit.” Shannon is explaining to Ping that there is such a large number of things to see that they cannot see them all in one visit.
and	“And” is a conjunction that means “in addition, as well as, also.” A conjunction is a word or phrase that connects other words, phrases or clauses. There are three types of conjunctions: coordinating, correlative and subordinating. “And” is a coordinating conjunction. A coordinating conjunction connects words, phrases or clauses of equal rank (independent clauses). Other coordinating conjunctions are “but,” “or,” and “nor.” A coordinating conjunction is always set off by a comma, as in “You can tell us your choices, and we can make the final plans.”

The Smithsonian Institute and Museums	The Smithsonian Institution is the world's largest museum complex with a total of 16 museums in addition to the National Zoo in Washington, D.C. and 2 museums in New York City. The popularity of the Smithsonian is rooted in its vast collection of objects and icons from history, its extensive art collection, and its broad exploration of science. The Native American Indian Museum, for example, features exhibits containing art, artifacts and cultural information on Native Americans. The Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History includes exhibits that teach visitors about nature and the natural world. There, galleries feature dinosaur exhibits, gems and minerals displays, and even an insect zoo. The National Postal Museum is another unique museum that highlights the history of the United States postal service. This museum houses one of the world's largest collections of stamps and stamp collecting materials. When visitors come to this museum they can see three airplanes that carried airmail, suspended in the atrium. For those with a further interest in air and space travel, the Smithsonian has the National Air and Space Museum where hundreds of flight related objects are on display. A variety of aircraft that have made flying history can be viewed. Guests here can touch a piece of the moon when they visit the museum's sample of a Lunar rock. The Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery houses works of art depicting the images of famous citizens who have left their mark on America and its culture. Among these famous faces are entertainers, civil rights activists, artists, sports celebrities and presidents. There is so much to learn about and explore in a Smithsonian Museum. Whether one's interest is science, history or art, there's plenty to entertain and stimulate the imagination.
Family Vacations	Commonly in the United States, summer months are a favorite time for families to take vacations. School is out and children are free to travel. There are so many great vacation spots throughout the country that deciding where to go can be the toughest part of planning a vacation. One family favorite is Disney World in Orlando, Florida where there is so much to see and do, families can go again and again and have a different experience every time. Disney World has four different theme parks. Magic Kingdom has rides based on storybook themes and storybook characters can be seen greeting the park's guests. At Epcot visitors see exhibits about the future and learn about countries all over the world. Disney's M-G-M Studios is a theme park all about Hollywood and the movies. Disney's Animal Kingdom theme park showcases the world of animals. Disney World has two water parks - Typhoon Lagoon, with a tropical theme, and Disney's Blizzard Beach, with a snowy theme. Families can stay in magnificent hotels, shop, and enjoy a wide range of family entertainment. Some families enjoy vacationing in Las Vegas, Nevada. Known as the Neon City, Las Vegas is famous for its colorful strip of brightly lit nightspots, casinos, and elaborate hotels. Las Vegas appeals not only to adults, but also to the whole family. Since Las Vegas is located in the desert, most of its resorts offer swimming pools so their guests can relax and cool off poolside. But some offer roller coaster rides as well as shows that are perfect for the whole family to enjoy. Aquariums, a variety of restaurants, and wildlife habitats for flamingos, lions, and white tigers are just some of the unique attractions
