

Thanks for the updated draft for commercial dishwashers. The only comment I have is concerning the efficiency requirements. Was any consideration given to the correlation between idle energy and rack capacity? For example: A unit could have an idle energy rate of 30% less than another machine and wash 50% less racks per hour. Therefore, even though the idle energy rate would seem to be less but the energy used to wash a rack of dishes would be more.

John A. Stern
Business Development Manager
Insinger Machine Company