

From: Cheryl Lamonds [REDACTED]
Posted At: Friday, March 28, 2003 7:15 PM
Conversation: Public Comment
Posted To: FeeRule

Subject: Public Comment

I am not a telemarketer. I am a consumer. I pay for my telephone service so that I may use it for my convenience. Telemarketers do not pay for my phone service and frequently inconvenience and annoy me. My auto is for my convenience; I do not let strangers use it. There is no law that says telemarketers have a right to a job or a right to exist as a business entity. We have a supply side economy. If we don't want something, the manufacturer goes out of business and must find another business providing what the consumer wants.

Thank you,

Cheryl E. Lamonds
[REDACTED] North Carolina