Subject: ADS 204 - Environmental Procedures

ADS 204 - Environmental Procedures has been updated and additional explanatory material has been included. This Chapter provides policy directives and required procedures on how to apply Title 22 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 216 (22 CFR 216) to the USAID assistance process.

Environmental sustainability is integral to USAID's overall goals, and therefore must be mainstreamed into all activities to achieve optimal results, to avoid inadvertent harm to the people we are trying to help, and to prevent wasting taxpayer dollars. To meet this goal, USAID incorporates environmental considerations into results-based planning, achieving, and assessing and learning. This Chapter defines what USAID, its operating units, teams, and individual officers must do to integrate environmental issues into its programs, both to optimize economic and social development results and to meet U.S. Government legal obligations.

A copy of the updated ADS 204 and its references is attached.
