

it takes a really big person to think small

Household cleaners, pesticides, paints, solvents. . . .

When it comes to home toxics, it pays to think small.

Purchasing the jumbo-size container might seem like a great way to save money, but home toxics carry a hidden cost: proper storage and disposal. Special care must be taken to protect you, your family and the environment from accidental poisoning and contamination.

Shop smart. Plan your projects out in advance. Purchase only the amount of product needed to get the job done. You won't end up having to store or dispose of unused toxics.

And that's something you can feel big about.

For help with home toxics disposal,
give us a call:

