Part I: Internship Information

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

Who We Are The U. S. Department of State is the official international relations arm of the President of the United States. The Department is responsible for formulating, implementing and supporting U.S. foreign policy, assisting U.S. citizens abroad and managing the human and material resources that provide the platform for U.S. foreign policy. Members of the Department's Foreign Service and Civil Service are engaged in issues such as conflict resolution, nuclear nonproliferation, human rights and democracy, environmental issues, world trade, public diplomacy, and the promotion of the interests of Americans and their businesses abroad. Department of State employees are also involved in support and management issues—improving logistical systems to get the best possible value for tax dollars.

As you will see on pages 17 – 42, the Department of State is composed of many different bureaus, some “regional” (for example, the Bureau of African Affairs), and others “functional”, dealing with specific external issues or internal responsibilities (such as the Bureau for Democracy, Human Rights and Labor; the Bureau of Administration; and the Bureau of Economic and Business Affairs).

The State Department's Mission To administer U.S. foreign policy and maintain diplomatic relations throughout the world.

- The Objectives of the Internship Program
- ❑ To encourage students to consider careers in foreign affairs
 - ❑ To provide students with valuable work experience in a foreign affairs agency
 - ❑ To aid the Department in achieving its mission

THE INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

You are eligible to apply if you are:

- A U.S. citizen
- A student. A student is an individual who has been accepted for enrollment, or who is enrolled, as a degree-seeking student in an accredited college or university.
- A full- or part-time continuing college or university junior, senior, or graduate student. An applicant is considered a junior if he/she will have completed all sophomore credits (60 or more semester hours or 90 quarter hours) by the time the internship begins and will be entering at least the junior year immediately following completion of the internship.
- In good academic standing in an accredited institution

IMPORTANT: You may apply for the Department's internship program if you have not yet completed your registration at a college or university or are awaiting an admissions determination. However, if selected for an internship, you may not begin your internship until you provide proof that you have registered, or have been accepted for enrollment, for studies in the semester or quarter immediately following the internship.

In accordance with the Federal Equal Opportunity Recruitment Program, the Department encourages women and minority students to apply for these positions.

Types of Internships

There are two different types of internships: domestic and overseas.

- Domestic – About half of the internships are in Washington, D.C. A limited number of intern positions are available at Department offices in other large cities in the United States.
- Overseas – The remaining internships are at our embassies and consulates abroad. Not all overseas posts are able to participate in the program, and participation may vary from year to year. For more information, please refer to the descriptions of participating bureaus that begin on page 17.

NOTE: In recognition of the fact that world conditions may change, the Department reserves the right to reassign interns should circumstances warrant.

Length of Internships

Students must be available to begin their internship within the timetable described on page 13. Interns usually serve for one semester or quarter during the academic year, or for a minimum of 10 consecutive weeks during the summer; they are expected to work a 40-hour week.

Salary and Benefits

- The majority of all internships are UNPAID.
 - Pending the availability of funding, a limited number of PAID internships are available to students who can demonstrate financial need. These positions are centrally funded by the Bureau of Human Resources. Students selected for these paid positions serve in bureaus throughout the Department of State and overseas. The decision to award funding is based solely on financial need and is not influenced by the bureau(s) to which a student may apply, regardless of what is stated on pages 17-42.
 - All students who wish to be considered for a paid internship must include in their internship application package their current Student Aid Report (SAR), which indicates their EFC (Expected Family Contribution) number. (This report is generated from the submission of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid form.) Only the Student Aid Reports issued by the Department of Education will be accepted. In addition, Student Aid Reports submitted without the EFC number will not be considered.
 - Students are paid for a maximum of 10 consecutive 40-hour weeks, starting the first day of their internship, at the GS-4 step 5 level (subject to change). Centrally funded interns are not eligible for paid overtime.
 - If the appointment is for 90 days or more, the intern earns annual and sick leave at the rate of four hours per bi-weekly pay period plus paid Federal holidays during the period worked. Paid interns contribute to Social Security.
 - Unless otherwise stipulated in the bureau descriptions, which begin on page 17, transportation to and from Washington or overseas posts is the responsibility of the intern.
 - Although unpaid interns are not Federal government employees, and are not entitled to any employee benefits, they are protected in the event of job-related injuries under the Federal Torts Claims Act.
 - Many educational institutions grant academic credit for internships and/or offer financial aid for internships.

Medical Insurance for Overseas Internships

IMPORTANT: Applicants who wish to intern abroad must present evidence of medical insurance coverage that is valid abroad, to include medical evacuation and repatriation of remains coverage. Interns may not travel to post without completing and submitting a copy of the Verification of Medical Coverage form to the Department's Student Programs office.

Housing

Housing is not provided for domestic internships. Arrangements and associated costs are the responsibility of the interns. A listing of suggested housing options in Washington, D.C. is provided to students selected as interns and alternates.

Abroad, every effort is made to provide housing at no cost to interns, but, because circumstances may vary at different posts, this cannot be guaranteed. The bureau descriptions, which begin on page 17, include available guidance on bureau housing policies. Before accepting an overseas internship, students may wish to confirm with the selecting bureau whether housing will be provided.

Metrochek Transit Benefit Program

The Federal government provides transportation benefits to qualified Federal employees to encourage the use of mass transportation domestically to conserve energy, improve air quality and reduce traffic congestion on U.S. roads and highways. All paid and unpaid interns assigned to Washington, D.C. and using public transportation are eligible for the Metrochek Transit Benefit program that helps to defray the cost of traveling to and from work. The benefit is based on actual commuting costs and, as of calendar year 2008, cannot exceed $115 per month.

THE SELECTION / CLEARANCE PROCESS

How Interns are Selected

All applications are submitted online through the USAJOBS website, which links to our "Gateway to State" system that screens applications to make sure that they are complete and that applicants meet the eligibility criteria. Once that process is completed, the bureau will have access to those applications submitted to them. Bureau representatives evaluate applicants based on the application materials. For many internships, foreign language ability is an important factor in placement for internships abroad. Completing some academic studies relevant to the type of work you wish to perform increases your competitiveness.

The bureau(s) or office(s) to which you have applied may make a verbal offer to you. However, the offer is not "official" until selectees receive written notification from the Student Programs office. This notification is a tentative offer to participate in the internship program. A final offer is contingent upon complete investigation and issuance of a security clearance. Those who are not selected for internships will also be notified. So that we may contact you as soon as possible, please make sure that any changes of address are updated immediately in your applicant profile.

Security Clearance Process

Students tentatively selected for the internship program must undergo a background investigation and receive either a Secret or Top Secret security clearance. The clearance process takes approximately 60-90 days to complete from the time the forms are received by the Bureau of Diplomatic Security (DS). Investigations may take substantially longer than 90 days if you have had extensive travel, education, residence and/or employment overseas, or if you have dual citizenship, foreign contacts, immediate family or relatives who are not citizens of the United States and/or a foreign born spouse or if there is a security, suitability, or medical issue to resolve. These issues could include a current or past history of drugs or alcohol abuse, as well as a recent history of credit problems. Further information regarding issues of dual citizenship and foreign influence is available at careers.state.gov. Although these problems will not necessarily preclude you from receiving a security clearance, they will lengthen the time required to complete the clearance process. Your preliminary notification of acceptance will include instructions on how to initiate your security clearance electronically. When you receive this letter, please complete the online clearance process by the date indicated in the letter. This is important! DS may be unable to process your security clearance if you fail to meet that deadline.

Random Drug Testing

All interns serving in positions that require a clearance for access to information classified as "Secret" or above will be subject to the Department's random employee drug testing program.

Final Offer of Appoint- ment

After all procedures are completed and clearances obtained, interns assigned domestically will be contacted by the Student Programs office with an official, final offer of appointment. The Bureau Coordinator normally contacts interns assigned abroad. Travel to Washington, D.C. or abroad for purposes of reporting for duty should not be done until you receive an official offer of appointment from either the Student Programs office (for domestic assignments) or the Bureau Coordinator (for overseas assignments) confirming the granting of your security clearance and permission to report for duty. The office or post to which you are assigned will be unable to employ you until you have received the appropriate clearance.

Note: Federal law requires denial of a passport to any spouse certified by the Department of Health and Human Services as being more than $5,000 in arrears on child support.

Overseas Travel Require- ments

Interns serving at posts outside of the United States are responsible for obtaining a U.S. passport with validity at least six months beyond their proposed stay and a travel visa as required by the country. They are also responsible for purchasing overseas medical insurance that will cover repatriation of remains and medical evacuation overseas.

WHAT TO EXPECT AS A STATE DEPARTMENT INTERN

Duties of an Intern

Internships are excellent preparation for future careers in both the Civil Service and the Foreign Service. The Department is looking for students with a broad range of majors, such as Business or Public Administration, Social Work, Economics, Information Management, Journalism, and the Biological, Physical and Engineering Sciences, as well as those majors more traditionally identified with international affairs.

Intern duties and responsibilities may vary according to the post or office of assignment. For instance, interns may write reports on human rights issues, assist with trade negotiations, assist with citizen's services or visa work, help Americans in distress abroad, or organize conferences or visits of high-level officials. Others may research economic or environmental issues, write news stories, work on web pages or help produce electronic journals.

Interns with scientific and technical backgrounds might work with issues such as arms control, genetically modified organisms (GMOs), infectious diseases, and remote sensing.

Those interested in management may use their expertise working on projects involving budgets, human resources, information systems, or general logistical support to posts abroad. Some may be involved in educational and cultural exchange activities. Interns are also instrumental in the recruiting of U.S. speakers and specialists for overseas programs.

Intern Activities

Your internship experience at the Department of State not only includes the exceptional knowledge and work experiences that you will gain in your office setting, but also offers the opportunity to explore the Washington Metropolitan Area. During each intern session, an Intern Activities Coordinator is assigned to the Student Programs staff to plan activities that will enhance your internship. These activities include brown bag lunches with senior Department officials, tours, and social activities. The tours allow students to get better insight into the daily functioning of other government organizations. Examples of past tours include the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Pentagon, and the Capitol, as well as tours of various embassies. Guest speakers include some of the top managers in the Department, who share their career experiences and give students a better understanding of the Department's objectives.

The social activities (during work and after-hours) allow networking and socializing with other student employees.

Interns assigned overseas and in field offices can expect to get involved with embassy functions or events appropriate to the area in which they are assigned.

WHAT TO EXPECT AS A STATE DEPARTMENT INTERN, Cont.

Appropriate Attire

The Department of State does not have an official dress code; however, as the leading U.S. foreign affairs agency, the Department of State is in the front line of customer service to the public at home and abroad. This mission requires that our employees project competence and professionalism. Therefore, the appearance of employees should also be professional in a way that conveys respect for colleagues, customers, and the work environment and should not pose a safety or health hazard or distraction from work.

The Department welcomes the cultural diversity of its workforce, and seeks to maintain freedom for personal expression without sacrificing the professional image essential to the performance of its mission.

Other Student Employment Programs

Find out more about other student employment program opportunities such as Cooperative Education Program (Student Cooperative Education Program), Stay-in-School (Student Temporary Employment Program), Student Disability Program (Workforce Recruitment Program), Summer Clerical Program, Fascell Fellowship Program, Thomas R. Pickering Foreign Affairs Fellowship, and Presidential Management Fellows Program by visiting our web site at careers.state.gov/student.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Apply Online

Applications for the U.S. Department of State's intern program must be submitted online, using the "Gateway to State" system (accessible through www.USAJOBS.gov).

To access our applications, visit our website at careers.state.gov/student and click on Selection Process. Then click the title of the program you would like to apply for (Internship, Summer Clerical, etc...). You may only apply for a job opening when an application is open on USAJOBS (see timetable on page 13) by searching for Internship on www.usajobs.gov, or by clicking on the "Gateway to State" button on careers.state.gov/student (button only available when an internship application is open on USAJOBS). If you are a new user on USAJOBS, follow the instructions to create a new user account. Please remember to write down and save your user ID and password.

Now you are ready to begin your internship application.

Your Application Package

There are three parts to the application process:

- Applicant Profile
- Application, including Statement of Interest
- Transcripts and optional Student Aid Report (SAR)

In the first part of the application process, you will create your applicant profile by providing biographic and prior Federal government employment information. This section will determine if you meet application eligibility requirements. You must answer all "required" fields in order to proceed through the application process. (If you are not new to USAJOBS, you can proceed directly to the intern application.)

The second part of the online application process is specific to the internship program. In this section, you will:

- Identify up to two bureaus for which you wish to be considered for an internship assignment
- Answer questions regarding your personal, academic and employment credentials to be used by bureau representatives in making their selections
- Submit a one-page (maximum 2500 characters) Statement of Interest that describes your objectives and motivation in seeking an internship. Since bureau representatives use this statement in making their selections, you should use the statement to explain how your academic courses and other personal experiences relate to the bureau(s) or office(s) to which you are applying. Please use this opportunity to tell us about any specific disadvantages you may have overcome. You may also use this section to expand upon any of your answers to questions asked in the application, such as language ability or other special skills.

The third part of the application process is the submission of your transcript and, if you're applying for a paid internship, your current Student Aid Report (SAR). Your application is not considered complete until these documents have been received using the following procedures:

- Once you have completed the online questionnaire and Statement of Interest, you will be prompted to print out cover sheets that will be used to fax your transcripts and your current SAR. You will only be allowed to print your cover sheets after successfully submitting your online application. It is extremely important that only these cover sheets be used for faxing these documents. The cover sheets are coded to insure that your documents will be included in your online record. Please ensure that each document is faxed separately with the appropriate cover sheet.
- Transcripts: Both official and unofficial transcripts are acceptable as part of the application process. However, if you are selected for a paid internship, you will be required to provide official transcripts before you can receive your final offer of employment. If you are a first year graduate student, you must submit a copy of your most recent undergraduate transcript.
- OPTIONAL – Student Aid Report (SAR). If you wish to be considered for a paid internship, you must use the above procedures to fax a copy of your Student Aid Report (SAR). The SAR must include your Expected Family Contribution number (EFC). You will not be considered for a paid internship if you do not submit a SAR or if the EFC number is not indicated on your SAR.
- If a document is faxed successfully, you will receive a system-generated e-mail confirming receipt. We strongly recommend that you retain a copy of this e-mail in case verification of your submission is required.
- Due to the large number of fax transmissions submitted in the final days of a job announcement, we strongly urge you to fax in your documents at least a few days before the closing date of an announcement to ensure your documents will be transmitted successfully.

Submitting Your Application

When you have completed the online questionnaire and the Statement of Interest and have printed out the fax cover sheets, you will be ready to complete your application. You should remain in the program until you have received an application confirmation screen. Print this screen for verification of your application. If you do not receive the confirmation screen, you must assume your application was not complete. Follow the instructions, which will indicate which section (s) of the application you must still complete. Please remember that your application is not considered complete until you have transmitted your transcript and, as appropriate, your SAR.

Accessing Your Application

You may stop working on your application at any time and return later to resume until its completion or to update any biographical, student, or employment data. To do this, you should:

1. Retain your User ID and Password for future use
 2. Save your application
 3. Return to www.USAJOB.S.gov, enter your user ID in the login field, and enter your password to access your individual application and data.

Gateway to State

Application Checklist

Check off each item to make sure everything has been done.

Reminder !!!

- Did you receive and print out an application confirmation screen after submitting your application?
- Did you use the appropriate system-generated cover sheet to fax your transcript?
- Did you use the appropriate system-generated cover sheet to fax your Student Aid Report (SAR) showing your Expected Family Contribution (EFC) number? (Necessary only if you are applying for a paid internship)
- Did you receive verification that faxed items were successfully transmitted?
 - To verify your fax transmission, you can do the following:
 1. At the USAJOBS login page, enter your username and password.
 2. Select the "Generate Fax Cover Sheet" option and click "Next".
 3. If we have received your fax, the status of your fax will say "Received".
- Did you keep copies of everything for your records?

Fellowship Opportunities

The Council Of American Ambassadors Fellowship Program

The Council of American Ambassadors provides six fellowships in honor of Ambassadors Walter and Leonore Annenberg. The Fellowship program combines mentoring by former U.S. ambassadors, practical training through internships at the Department of State and, in cooperation with The Fund for American Studies, academic studies in international affairs at Georgetown University, as well as residential housing on campus. The Fellowship provides a $6,000 award to each student that is applied to cover the cost of the program.

The Fellowships are open to undergraduate students who have completed their junior year prior to the commencement of their internships and who have a strong interest in pursuing a career in international affairs. The Fellowships are available only during summer sessions.

Applications of persons chosen by the Department of State for internships in Washington, DC and who have authorized the Department to provide their information to other organizations will be forwarded to the Council and The Fund for consideration. Eligible candidates will be contacted by the Council of American Ambassadors with instructions to apply for the Fellowship. For more information about this program, please visit www.americanambassadors.org. Email inquiries may be sent to council@americanambassadors.org.

The Pamela Harriman Foreign Service Fellowship Program

The Pamela Harriman Foreign Service Fellowships, sponsored by the College of William and Mary, will provide a $5,000 award for two U.S. college students to work in the U.S. embassies in Paris and London and one U.S. college student to work in a component of the Office of the Secretary. The fellowships are available during summer sessions only. Applications of persons chosen by the Department of State for internships in London or Paris or in a component of the Office of the Secretary and who have authorized the Department to provide their information to other organizations will be forwarded to The Pamela Harriman Foreign Service Fellowship Program for consideration. Eligible candidates will be contacted with instructions on applying for a Harriman Fellowship. The Harriman Board has determined that only undergraduate students entering their junior or senior year and graduating seniors continuing their studies will be considered for a Fellowship. E-mail inquiries on the Fellowship Program should be addressed to: harriman@wm.edu. All written inquiries should be addressed to:

PARTICIPATING BUREAUS/OFFICES

The following is a brief overview of each participating bureau or office that offers internships at various times during the year. You may apply for an internship in two (2) bureaus or offices. If you wish to be considered for an overseas internship, at least one of your bureau choices must be one of the following: AF, EAP, EUR, IO, NEA, SCA, or WHA. You will also have the opportunity to indicate the specific country in which you would like to intern. Please note that some bureaus offer internships in domestic locations other than Washington, D.C. If you are interested in working at one of these locations, you will have the opportunity to express your preference.

Bureau of Administration (A)

Diplomatic Reception Rooms (M/FA)

The Diplomatic Reception Rooms and State Rooms are 18th-century style rooms located in the Main State Department building. They are used for official functions hosted by the Secretary of State and other high-level government officials. The Office of Fine Arts (M/FA) manages the collection of 5000 museum-caliber objects of American furniture, paintings, and decorative arts of the period 1750 to 1825. An intern in the office can expect to assist with various aspects of registrarial and collections management, including maintaining computer databases, constructing photography files, and inter-relational records in object, conservation, publicity and research files. Graduate students in decorative arts or museum studies would gain registrarial experience.

Additional opportunities are available for graduate interns in American fine and decorative arts history, museum studies and library science/special collections/archives to assist with collections registration, management and conservation activities.

Unpaid internships are available for graduate students in Washington, D.C. throughout the year.

Art Bank Program (A/AB)

- Acquires and manages a permanent collection of more than 2,000 limited edition prints and original works on paper by contemporary American artists
- Exhibits artwork in offices of Department officials, reception areas, and conference rooms in the Department of State and the Agency for International Development in Washington, D.C.

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C. throughout the year.

Office of the Executive Director (A/EX)

Supports the Assistant Secretary for Administration and the Under Secretary for Management through the provision of executive management and administrative services, including management analysis, strategic planning, presidential travel support, financial management, human resources management, and information resources management for the Bureau of Administration. Within the A Bureau, the Office of the Executive Director provides services to the organizations under the direction of the Deputy Assistant Secretaries for Operations, Logistics Management, and Information Sharing Services. Service is also provided to the Offices of Emergency Management, Global Support Services and Innovation, Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization, M/Fine Arts (Diplomatic Reception Rooms), S/Coordination for Reconstruction and Stabilization, the Bureau of Oceans and International Environmental and Scientific Affairs, including the Office of the Science and Technology Adviser to the Secretary, and the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights and Labor.

Unpaid internships are available throughout the year in Washington, D.C.

Office of Global Support Services and Innovation (A/GSSI)

Supports management professionals, both overseas and domestic, with innovative methods of transforming support services for the U.S. Government to be more efficient, effective, and customer-oriented. Bureau of International Information Programs (IIP)

Are you a born communicator? Do you have a keen interest in journalism and international news? Would you like to be on the front lines of U.S. public diplomacy efforts, presenting important information directly to a foreign audience?

IIP is the principal international strategic communications service for the U.S. foreign affairs community. Its products are translated into Persian, Chinese, Arabic, French, Spanish and Russian, and are featured online at <http://usinfo.state.gov/>.

Through daily articles published on USINFO, web chats and digital video conferences (DVCs) between public opinion leaders and overseas audiences, monthly electronic journals, and overseas speaker programs, IIP presents U.S. policy on foreign, economic, security, and global issues, as well as information about American society and values to the rest of the world.

This is an ideal opportunity for students majoring in journalism and communication, as well as international affairs. IIP enjoys press access to U.S. officials at the State Department, White House and other public agencies. Its writers also attend events sponsored by Washington think tanks and nongovernmental organizations to hear high-profile foreign policy speakers present their views on major world issues and events.

You will enjoy full inclusion and participation with our full-time staff, and your bylined articles will have a global audience, in multiple languages, thanks to the Internet and U.S. embassy officials who place them in local media.

As an IIP intern, you can:

- Attend and write articles about speeches and press conferences by senior U.S. officials, programs at Washington-based think tanks and nongovernmental organizations, congressional hearings and cultural events
- Design and conduct web chats and DVCs that allow interaction and communication between foreign audiences and opinion leaders in the areas of culture, science, politics and business

- Assist in the production of electronic journals, IIP's online magazines, which examine a wide range of issues such as human rights, narcotics, terrorism, American society, democracy, and information technology
- Assess, recruit and schedule U.S. officials, people from the academic community and subject specialists for overseas speaking and training programs
- Assist in the provision of information research to public diplomacy officials at home and abroad using top-of-the-line proprietary databases.

Paid and unpaid internships are available in Washington throughout the year.

Bureau of Intelligence and Research (INR)

- Directs the Department's program of intelligence analysis and research
- Conducts liaison with the Intelligence Community
- Represents the Department in interagency intelligence groups and on committees

INR offices which accept interns are:

Office of the Analysis for East Asia and the Pacific (INR/EAP) - conducts research and analysis, and briefs Department principals, on a broad range of political, diplomatic and other issues in the East Asia and Pacific region (Burma through Japan). Current priority issues include Six-Party Talks on North Korea's nuclear program, Chinese foreign policy, Chinese internal stability and Communist Party politics, inter-Korean relations, the China-Taiwan issue, political developments in Southeast Asia and instability in the Pacific. INR/EAP directly supports the diplomatic initiatives of State's Bureau of East Asia and Pacific Affairs. Successful applicants should have academic or other experience in one or more Asian countries. Language ability is a strong plus.

Office of the Geographer and Global Issues (INR/GGI) - conducts research and analysis, and briefs Department principals, on a broad range of topical issues including environment and sustainable development, humanitarian crises and refugees, United Nations affairs, human rights, and war crimes. The office also provides boundary analysis, GIS cartography, and remote sensing imagery support for the Bureau and much of the Department.

The Humanitarian Information Unit (INR/GGI/HIU) serves as a U.S. Government interagency center to identify, collect, analyze, and disseminate unclassified information critical to decision makers and partners in preparation for, and in response to, humanitarian emergencies worldwide. Candidates with experience using Geographic Information Systems (GIS) or remote sensing software and/or experience in international humanitarian relief issues or operations are particularly welcome.

The Geographic Information Unit (INR/GGI/GIU) does custom cartography, GIS applications, and boundary analysis and research for INR and the Department of State. GGI/GIU is seeking an intern with training in geography and strong research skills to assist in boundary analysis work (minimum 10 weeks).

The War Crimes, Atrocities, and Democracy (INR/GGI/WCAD) division supports the international war crimes tribunals and the State Department's atrocities early warning, human rights, and democracy efforts. GGI/WCAD is seeking an intern with strong intellectual and organizational skills to contribute to this effort (minimum 10 weeks).

Office of Intelligence Resources (INR/IRE) - Provides support and expertise to INR analysts and Department policymakers on tasking technical intelligence systems and coordinating the release of information to foreign governments. Develops and represents the Department's intelligence information needs and conveys them to the appropriate elements of the Intelligence Community. Coordinates operational technical activities to ensure alignment with the Department's foreign policy objectives. INR/IRE seeks intern candidates with a broad interest in national security issues and a strong ability to present information orally and in writing.

Office of Analysis for the Near East and South Asia (INR/NESA) - Conducts research and analysis and briefs Department principals on a broad range of political, diplomatic, and social issues from North Africa and the Middle East, though the Gulf, Iran, Afghanistan, and the rest of South Asia. Priority issues include the Western Sahara, the Middle East Peace Process, domestic Israeli politics, and the internal politics and foreign policies of a number of disparate countries, especially including Iran, Pakistan, India, and Afghanistan. INR/NESA directly supports the policy initiatives of two of State's regional bureaus: the Bureau of Near Eastern Affairs (NEA) and the Bureau of South and Central Asian Affairs (SCA). Successful applicants must have an academic or practical experience in one or more of the region's countries. In addition, ability in a regional language, be it Arabic, Persian, or Hindi –Urdu (or any of the many others), is a plus.

Office of Research (INR/R) – is responsible for open-source analysis of foreign opinion in all regions of the world. INR/R conducts public opinion polls and media analysis to gauge foreign attitudes toward key issues, including international security, trade and economy, ethnic relations and democratic transitions. INR/R findings are communicated to policymakers throughout the executive branch of the U.S. government through written reports, briefings, and presentations in Washington and overseas. Interns typically focus on either media analysis or polling in one of the following regions: Europe, Eurasia, Middle East, South Asia, East Asia, Africa or Latin America (applicants may state a preference). Possible duties include media analysis, background research, questionnaire development, data analysis (using SPSS), and writing reports. Applicants should have strong regional knowledge, excellent communication skills, and proficiency in Microsoft Word and Excel (familiarity with SPSS is a plus).

Office of Analysis for Russia and Eurasia (INR/REA) - REA produces all-source, real-time and longer-term intelligence and analytical support on the domestic and foreign policies of Russia, Ukraine, Belarus, Moldova, the Caucasus and Central Asia to promote US goals of national security, economic prosperity, and democratization. The office monitors traffic, briefs State officials ranging from desk officers to Department "principals," represents INR and the Department of State in the Intelligence Community and, when necessary, on Capitol Hill and with foreign governments, and regularly participates in professional and academic conferences.

Intern applicants should have a strong academic background in international relations, political science, history or area studies with demonstrated research and writing skills. Proficiency in a relevant language, especially Russian, is highly desirable.

INR-selected candidates (except those in INR/GGI's Humanitarian Information Unit) must be granted a Top Secret clearance and be found eligible for Sensitive Compartmented Information before they can serve as interns.

Bureau of Near East Asian Affairs (NEA)

- Manages U.S. foreign policy toward countries in the Middle East and North Africa.
- Directs, coordinates, and supervises diplomatic activities within those countries, including consular and administrative management issues

Duties of interns, both domestic and abroad, are similar in nature to that of a Junior Foreign Service Officer. These can include: reading/answering cable traffic, attending meetings, escorting visitors, compiling briefing books, conducting special research projects, and a host of other duties. Overseas interns, once selected, are provided with briefing materials, and an outline of specific duties and projects. Domestic interns are provided with duty statements and a handbook.

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, DC, and abroad at certain U.S. Embassies and Consulates throughout the year. Because dangerous conditions exist in a number of NEA countries,

The number of posts participating in the internship program may be limited and may be subject to change as circumstances warrant.

Internships are offered in the political, economic, consular, public diplomacy and administrative sections in U.S. Embassies and Consulates abroad. For students applying for an internship abroad, please specify in your Statement of Interest the Embassy or Consulate at which you wish to pursue your internship. When available, housing is provided to interns assigned abroad, but not for those working in Washington, D.C.

Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations (OBO)

OBO assists the Secretary of State and the Under Secretary for Management with formulating policy on the Department of State's worldwide buildings program abroad for the Department of State and the U.S. Government community.

Through its extensive program of new construction, facility rehabilitation, and operations programs, OBO provides safe, secure, and functional living and working space for the thousands of men and women who represent the United States and perform the important work of diplomacy. Since 2001, OBO has constructed over 56 new facilities and have moved more than 17,000 personnel into safer structures, and many more new facilities are either in the design or construction phase.

As an intern at OBO, you can:

- Work with engineers, architects, interior design, planners, project managers, and other professionals to help shape the overseas presence of U.S. diplomatic facilities throughout the world.
- Architectural and engineering students will build critical skill sets relevant to a competitive and global job market including: state-of-the-art computer-aided design, green building technology, mixed-use building design and construction, and focus on building and designing major compounds with stringent security requirements.

- Benefit from on-site weekly lectures from industry professionals, relevant field trips, and participate in gatherings that allow relationship building with peers and working professionals.
- Learn first-hand about the opportunities and long-term benefits of a career within Overseas Buildings Operations, while being exposed to the building industries based in the Washington, DC metropolitan area.

Unpaid and some paid internships with flexible schedules are available throughout the year.

- Conservation and sustainable management of natural resources
- Global climate change
- Oceans and fisheries affairs
- Marine conservation
- International science and technology cooperation programs
- Bioterrorism and biodefense
- Infectious diseases and global health
- Science and Technology
- Public outreach on environmental diplomacy

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C. throughout the year.

Office of the Inspector General (OIG)

OIG inspects each of the approximately 260 embassies, diplomatic posts, and international broadcasting installations throughout the world, to determine whether policy goals are being achieved and whether the interests of the United States are being represented and advanced effectively. Additionally, OIG performs specialized security inspections and audits in support of the Department's mission to provide effective protection to our personnel, facilities, and sensitive intelligence information. OIG also audits Department and BBG operations and activities to ensure that they are as effective, efficient, and economical as possible. Finally, OIG investigates instances of fraud, waste, and mismanagement that may constitute either criminal wrongdoing or violation of Department and BBG regulations.

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C., throughout the year. The OIG's Office of Counsel encourages second-year law students to apply.

Bureau of Public Affairs (PA)

The Bureau of Public Affairs' mission is to help make foreign policy less foreign to people around the globe by reaching out to the media and the public. The Bureau also provides guidance and direction to the Department on the communication of foreign policy. The following offices work within the bureau to accomplish these goals in many different ways:

- Strategic Communications (PA/SCP): Develops strategic communication plans for Department initiatives, programs and policies and produces communication products such as focused "one-pagers" on a wide range of international affairs topics.

- Press Office (PA/PRESS): With primary focus on the Washington, D.C. press corps, but with frequent contact with nationwide and international media, the Office prepares the Department Spokesperson for the daily briefing; facilitates media coverage of the Secretary of State's public events; issues statements, media notes, and fact sheets to articulate a hot topic or policy position; and facilitates special media briefings for specific issues or events. The Press Office at USAID explains USAID's mission and programs and coordinates media and press advance for trips, events, and interviews by the USAID Administrator and its other principal officers.
- Regional and Media Outreach (PA/RMO): Pursues media outreach, enabling Americans everywhere to hear directly from key Department officials through local, regional and national media interviews.
- Public Liaison (PA/PL): Schedules briefings and conferences in the Department and arranges town meetings and speakers to visit communities to discuss U.S. foreign policy and why it is important to all Americans; reaches out to schools and non-governmental organizations; and answers questions from the public about current foreign policy issues by phone, email and letter
- Intergovernmental Affairs (PA/IGA): Assists state, county and city governments with foreign policy questions and information concerning their official trips abroad and receiving foreign delegations.
- Electronic Information (PA/EI): Manages the State Department's website at www.state.gov and a youth website (www.future.state.gov) develops web pages with up-to-date information about U.S. foreign policy, and prepares special publications
- Foreign Press Center (PA/FPC): Helps foreign media to cover the United States; generates programs for foreign journalists and broadcasters to deepen their understanding and the accuracy of their reporting on American society and U.S. foreign policy.
- Broadcast Services (PA/OBS): Supports the foreign affairs communication mission of the U.S. Department of State by producing live TV pool coverage of events involving the President, Secretary of State, and principal spokespersons; by producing television coverage of current events in the U.S. and worldwide that present U.S. policies; and by producing news features, special events programs, documentaries and co-productions with foreign broadcasters. PA/OBS assists more than 100 small and large foreign TV news bureaus in the U.S. with live and taped coverage, b-roll footage, research, interviews and TV production assistance. All of this is distributed globally via broadcast fiber, satellite, and the internet. OBS operates AETN – The American Embassy Television Network, the Department of State's global satellite broadcast network - a direct U.S. television resource for international broadcasters.
- Rapid Response Unit (PA/RRU): Monitors global news stories around-the-clock, analyzes important media trends and puts together effective messages and distributes a daily alert to Cabinet secretaries and key policymakers in Washington and overseas. These reports provide an effective early warning system that helps us respond quickly to stories as varied as U.S. earthquake assistance to Pakistan, Iranian nuclear defiance, and Palestinian elections.
- Office of the Historian (PA/HO): Prepares the official documentary record of U.S. foreign policy, The Foreign Relations of the United States; compiles historical studies on U.S. foreign policy and diplomacy; and responds to public inquiries on foreign policy and diplomatic history.
- United States Diplomacy Center (PA/USDC): Plans, develops, and operates the National Museum of American Diplomacy which is dedicated to exploring the work and mission of the Department and the practice and challenges of American diplomacy; engages the public through outreach activities in educational institutions, programs offered at the Department of State, and through the Internet

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C. throughout the year in all of the above offices.

Bureau of Resource Management (RM)

Headed by the Department's Chief Financial Officer, RM carries out a variety of resource management functions for the Department of State:

- Resource Planning (RM/SPP): The Office of Strategic and Performance Planning (SPP) brings dedicated focus to the Department's strategic, program, and performance planning activities. RM/SPP is responsible for the Department's Mission Performance Plan (MPP) process, the Bureau Performance Plan (BPP) process, the annual Performance Plan, the coordination of all activities associated with the development of the Department of State Strategic Plan, and participates in the preparation of the combined Performance and Accountability Report. RM/SPP coordinates the annual Senior Reviews chaired by the Deputy Secretary, leads the inter-agency effort to update the International Affairs Strategic Plan (IASP), and ensures Department-wide compliance with the Government Performance and Results Act (GPRA). RM/SPP is also working to implement the President's Management Agenda initiative on Budget and Performance Integration.
- Office of Budget and Planning (State Operations) (RM/BP): This is the Department's Budget shop. It focuses on State Programs and Operations. This shop is the first stop for any Department funding. It reviews the requirements, develops the budget, presenting appropriations requests and financial plans to OMB, the President, and the Congress and then ensures available resources are optimally allocated to achieve Department-wide strategic goals. It manages a network of Department budget and financial management processes and activities involving Department principals, other Department resource management offices, all Department bureaus, and other government agencies to operate a worldwide program for budget formulation, presentation and execution.
- Resource Systems, Accountability and Policy (RM/DCFO): This Office does the primary technical and policy advising to the Assistant Secretary and Chief Financial Officer on matters relating to financial management and provides guidance and coordination to the Department's financial management program. The DCFO manages the Financial Policy, Reporting and Analysis Directorate, the Global Financial Management Systems Directorate, and the Global Financial Systems Support Directorate. The DCFO advises the Chief Financial Officer, and provides technical guidance on matters relating to financial management systems for the Department's worldwide activities, including, strategic planning for financial management, policy, procedures, and management controls.

- Resource Execution (RM/GFS): Global Financial Services is located in Charleston, South Carolina at the Charleston Financial Services Complex. The Managing Directors for the Charleston Financial Service Center, the Paris Financial Service Center, the Bangkok Financial Service Center, the Domestic Financial Services Directorate, and the Customer Support, Training & Global Disbursing Operations Directorate all report to Director-GFS. With approximately 600 government and contract employees, GFS provides financial services not only to the Department of State's domestic and worldwide offices, but also a myriad of other federal agencies with overseas presence.

Office of the Coordinator for Reconstruction and Stabilization (S/CRS)

This new office oversees and coordinates civilian response activities of the U.S. government in key states making the transition out of civil strife.

- The office prepares, plans, and supports U.S. government stabilization and reconstruction activities in a range of situations that require the capabilities of multiple U.S. government agencies, including: complex emergencies, failing states, failed states, post-conflict environments, and/or situations involving peacekeeping or other international interventions.
- The office provides the Secretary of State and other U.S. government decision-makers with clear options; is developing an Operational Readiness Corps and Reserve for "surge" capacity; and serves as an internal expert consulting group, which either can support regional bureaus in coordinating, or can itself directly coordinate, the U.S. government response as the situation warrants.
- The office seeks to monitor "hot spots," plans responses, conducts exercises, and pre-identifies people and funds for rapid response.
- The office aims to become a catalyst for applying lessons learned in sectors like governance, civil society, rule of law, democratization, transitional security, public safety, humanitarian relief, refugee resettlement, infrastructure reconstruction, education, community outreach, banking, debt, trade, privatization, economic stabilization, and multilateral diplomacy regarding failing and failed states.

- The office works with key private sector groups like Non-Governmental Organizations, Private Voluntary Organizations, contractors, think tanks and universities in order to develop expertise and build institutional response capacity.

Paid and unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C. throughout the year.

Office of the Coordinator for Counterterrorism (S/CT)

- Coordinates the USG's international counterterrorism policy to build the political will of foreign partners to combat terrorism and to assist our partners to develop the practical capacities - in law enforcement, border control, and banking regulation, among others - to identify, interdict and defeat terrorists. We accomplish this by: engaging with foreign governments and publics to reinforce policy goals; providing practical assistance to build law enforcement capacity (the Anti-Terrorism Assistance program), counterterrorism finance skills (Counterterrorism Finance Program), border control (the Terrorist Interdiction Program); and, building and sustaining USG counterterrorism capabilities through the Foreign Emergency Support Team (FEST) and Technical Support Working Group (TSWG).
- Established a new Homeland Security Unit to coordinate cross-cutting policy issues within State regarding homeland security; it will also facilitate State's coordination with the Department of Homeland Security (DHS). This will strengthen our links with the DHS and reinforce State's coordinating lead on international counterterrorism policy.
- Engages in bilateral, multilateral, and public diplomacy to deter terrorism through a firm policy of no concessions to terrorists, prosecution or extradition of international terrorists, and vigorous opposition to state-sponsored terrorism.
- Identifies and develops justification for the U.S. government's biennial designation of foreign terrorist organizations.
- Coordinates U.S. counterterrorism research and development including consultations and cooperation with selected countries.
- Leads interagency Foreign Emergency Support Team that stands ready to deploy overseas on four hours notice in the event of an international terrorist incident.

Foreign Service Grievance Board (S/FSGB)

Congress established the Foreign Service Grievance Board as an independent adjudicatory body to ensure procedural protections for Foreign Service employees of the six Foreign Affairs agencies. The Board must resolve the tensions that sometimes develop between the need to protect employee rights and the desire to enhance Foreign Service efficiency. The major function of the Board is to provide a forum for the fair review and adjudication of grievance appeals. The Board's jurisdiction extends to any grievance, as defined in Section 1101 of the Foreign Service Act, and to any separation for cause proceeding initiated pursuant to Section 610(a) (2). The jurisdiction of the Foreign Service Grievance Board is limited to current and former members of the Foreign Service who are U.S. citizens. The Board also has jurisdiction over labor-management implementation disputes and certain retirement annuity pension claims. Its decisions generally are binding on the grievant and the agency alike subject only to judicial review.

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C. throughout the year. Those interested in a broad view of the practical problems of the Foreign Service, personnel management and/or computer database management, are encouraged to apply. Interested persons are welcome to visit the Board's website at www.fsgb.gov.

- Conducts U.S. foreign relations with countries in the Central Asian countries of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan.
- Directs, coordinates, and supervises diplomatic activities within those countries, including consular and administrative management issues.

Duties of interns, both domestic and abroad, are similar in nature to that of a Junior Foreign Service Officer. These can include: reading/answering cable traffic, attending meetings, escorting visitors, compiling briefing books, conducting special research projects, and a host of other duties. Overseas interns, once selected, are provided with briefing materials, and an outline of specific duties and projects. Domestic interns are provided with duty statements and a handbook.

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C., and abroad at certain U.S. Embassies and Consulates throughout the year. Because dangerous conditions exist in a number of SCA countries, the number of posts participating in the internship program may be limited and may be subject to change as circumstances warrant.

Internships are offered in the political, economic, consular, public diplomacy and administrative sections in U.S. Embassies and Consulates abroad. For students applying for an internship abroad, please specify in your Statement of Interest the Embassy or Consulate at which you wish to pursue your internship. When available, housing is provided to interns assigned abroad, but not for those working in Washington, D.C.

Office of the Science and Technology Adviser to the Secretary (STAS)

Appointed in September 2000, the Adviser and STAS lead an initiative to:

- Strengthening the S&T literacy and capacity of the Department as a whole - both by increasing the number of scientists in the Department and by increasing training and exposure of diplomatic and civil service personnel to S&T issues
- Building a partnership with the outside S&T community - academia, technical agencies, associations, industry - particularly in the U.S., but also abroad
- Providing advice to the Secretary and other senior Department officials, and catalyzing initiatives for greater State leadership in international S&T cooperation and related policy developments for new and emerging S&T issues

STAS can accommodate up to two interns during any internship period, but also will assist in identifying regional and functional bureaus, as well as embassies abroad, that may require S&T interns. The positions may or may not be paid, depending on bureau policy. Accordingly, applicants should also indicate their field(s) of concentration as well as any preferences for overseas locations. See the STAS website: www.state.gov/g/stas/.

Bureau of Verification, Compliance, and Implementation (VCI)

- The Verification, Compliance, and Implementation (VCI) Bureau's core mission is to ensure that appropriate verification requirements and capabilities are fully considered and properly integrated throughout the development, negotiation, and implementation of arms control, nonproliferation, and disarmament agreements and commitments, and to ensure that other countries' compliance is carefully watched, rigorously assessed, appropriately reported, and resolutely enforced. In this regard, the Bureau is responsible, inter alia, for preparing verifiability assessments on proposals and agreements, and reporting these to Congress, as required. The Bureau also prepares the President's annual report to Congress on Adherence to and Compliance with Arms Control, Nonproliferation, and Disarmament Agreements and Commitments.
- As required by statute, the Bureau is responsible for ensuring that U.S. intelligence capabilities to collect, analyze, and disseminate precise and timely information bearing upon matters of verification and compliance – e.g., on the nature and status of foreign governments' Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) and delivery system programs – are effectively acquired, maintained, and enhanced. VCI is designated by law as the principal policy community representative to the Intelligence Community with regard to verification and compliance matters, and uses this role – and the access to and interaction with the Intelligence Community that it entails – both to promote, preserve, and enhance key collection and analytic capabilities and to ensure that verification, compliance, and implementation intelligence requirements are met.

- Finally, the Bureau has the lead within the State Department on all issues related to missile defense and national security space policy. In this regard, the Bureau plays a special role in the interagency community with regard to the international aspects of missile defense (e.g., cooperation with foreign governments and the diplomatic aspects of U.S. missile defense decisions) and the development of U.S. and multinational policies related to actual or potential military uses of space and the protection of the United States' space-related infrastructure.

Unpaid internships are available in Washington, D.C. throughout the year.
