Introduction

The Leo Feist collection was acquired by the Library of Congress from Leo Feist's son, Leonard Feist, in 1977. Leo Feist, 1869-1930, began his career as a corset salesman and composed songs as an avocation. When he failed to find a publisher for his work he set up his own firm to deal in popular songs. "You can't go wrong with a Feist song" was the slogan printed on every copy of the firm's sheet music. A wonderful marketer, Feist soon had company branches in England, France, Germany, and Australia, specializing in American popular music.

The collection is primarily comprised of a set of 26 volumes in which are bound most of the music acquired by Leo Feist Publishers, Inc., between the years of 1883 and 1930 - approximately 2,000 titles. Also, included in Leonard Feist's gift are vocal scores of Paoletta, Irene, and M. Beaucaire, as well as a "Feist Dance Folio" of popular music arranged for the piano.

Leonard Feist began his music publishing career with his father's company and held executive positions with Feist, Century Music Publishing Co./Mercury Music Corporation. Feist moved on to be the president of the Associated Music Publishers (1956-64), and the National Music Publishers Association (1976). He held board positions on the National Music Council, and was actively involved with the Music Publishers of the United States, the National Academy of Popular Music, and the Copyright Society of the USA.

Certain restrictions as to the use or copying of the materials in this collection may apply. Consult a Reference Librarian in the Music Division for further permission information.

Scope and Content Note

The 26 volumes of bound sheet music that comprise the majority of the Leonard Feist Collection have been variously organized in chronological order, and/or in alphabetical order by format. The first twelve volumes include songs published between 1880 and 1911 organized into two alphabetical sets—volumes 1 through 6 comprising one alphabet and volumes 7 through 12 the other. It appears that the original concept between these two sets was that one would contain vocal music and the other instrumental—mostly piano—but this pattern does not hold true, and both sets include both vocal and instrumental works. In addition, there are occasional alphabetical inconsistencies between the volumes. Volumes 13 through 26 are arranged primarily chronologically by publication date with some overlaps and inconsistencies, and cover the years 1912 through 1930. There is a gap for the year 1925—presumably a missing volume. The volume numbers were supplied by the Library, and represent what we consider to be the most logical organization of the collection.

Researchers using the Feist collection may choose to approach the collection as a whole and go through it volume by volume; however, this finding aid also provides access by either song title or composer name. The body of the finding aid is comprised of an alphabetical listing of all song titles represented in the collection. Additional information includes the composer(s) name, the format of the piece—usually either piano or piano vocal—and the volume(s) that include the work. Some titles also include notes; usually these refer either to a songbook collection which is bound inside a volume, or physical oddities in the binding process where various pages of a song were inserted in the wrong place. In some cases, no composer name was provided, but rather that of an arranger. There is no shortcut to finding a title within a volume, and the researcher may have to page through an entire volume to find a specific work.

There were many inconsistencies for how composers names appeared on the individual works. These differences run the gamut from: first names alternating with initials to variant spellings of last names—such as Fred Fisher and Fred Fischer. In instances where we were reasonably certain that a variant spelling designated the same person, we chose to provide a uniform name. In most cases, no attempt was made to resolve these differences and the researcher is encouraged to check likely variant spellings of composers names in the index. The Alphabetical Composer Index at the end of this finding aid, (pgs. 83-113), lists composers or arrangers and all song titles that are associated with them. Some titles credit as many as four composers, all of whom would be referenced in the index. The researcher must then cross reference this information with the song titles in the body of the finding aid to determine which volume(s) they will require.

Researchers using the Feist Collection may be interested to know of a card catalog in the Performing Arts Reading Room that indexes all titles from the Leo Feist Dance Folios, mostly from the 1920's, in our general collections. The majority of these Dance Folios are not included in the bound volumes that comprise this—The Leo Feist Collection.

Everybody loves my girl
Lonesome baby
Somewhere in the world

Baer, Abel

All that I need is you
Blah! But not too blue
Blue Hawaii
Collette
Dreamy Montmartre
For no good reason at all
Go home and tell your mother
High up on a hill-top
I don't want nobody but you
If I didn't know your husband and you didn't...
In the land of make-believe
June night
Lady do
Lonesome in the moonlight
Love is just a little bit of heaven
Love will find you
Lucky Lindy
Mamma loves papa
Midstream
My mother's eyes
Olaf
On double Fifth Avenue
That's my mammy
Vi-o-lets
When the one you love loves you
When you're with somebody else
Where the dreamy Wabash flows
Wipin' the pan
