

Joint Financial Management Improvement Program

1999 to 2001 Core Requirements Cross-Reference

December 2001

This document provides cross-reference information that demonstrates the relationship between Core Financial System Requirements, originally published in JFMIP's 1999 requirements document (JFMIP-SR-99-4), and the Core Financial System Requirements published in 2001 (JFMIP-SR-02-01). The revision of the 1999 requirements involved 3 distinct phases. These phases produced the following documents:

- Redline Version - This document initiated the process. It consolidated all 1999 mandatory and value added requirements into a single reference source. Prior to this, mandatory and value added requirements were published separately. JFMIP also added requirement items based on staff research into recent Agency FMS acquisitions. All requirement changes were underlined in this version - hence the "redline" reference. JFMIP distributed this document to Federal agencies for comment starting in February of 2001.
- Exposure Draft - This document was based on JFMIP's review of comments received on the redline version. The resulting "exposure draft" document was distributed to vendors and agencies for comment starting in June of 2001.
- Final Draft - Updates to the requirements published in this document were based primarily on Exposure Draft comments. JFMIP distributed a "final draft" to the Steering Committee for publication approval in October of 2001 and published a final version in November.

This document, as stated above, maps the 1999 requirements to the 2001 requirements and does not show proposed changes indicated in either the redline or exposure drafts. In updating individual requirements, one or more of the actions may have been taken.

Action Code	Description
Edited	No change or minor editorial correction made.
Revised	Requirement wording revised for clarification or added specificity.
Moved	The requirement moved to another functional area.
Expanded (into xxx-nn)	Expanded into multiple requirements.
Mandatory	Requirement changed from value-added to mandatory.
Value-added	Requirement changed from to mandatory to value-added.
Derived (from xx-nn)	Requirement was originally included in the referenced 1999 requirement.
Added	Requirement was added.
Deleted	Requirement was considered obsolete or duplicate.
Consolidated (see xxx-nn)	Requirement was consolidated into a referenced requirement.
Reserved/withdrawn	Requirement number was reserved or the actual requirement was withdrawn by JFMIP prior to 12/31/1999.

These actions followed a comprehensive review of every mandatory and value-added requirement for responsiveness to agency and vendor submitted comments, specificity, potential duplication and testability. As a result of this review process, a significant number of 1999 requirements were deleted. In most cases, however, their original intent was maintained through the revision of another kept requirement. The net effect of the process is a more concise, and testable set of requirements.

Every requirement was re-numbered in the 2001 document. The basic numbering format is xxx-nn, where xxx is a functional area indicator and nn is a unique sequence number. The following table contains a complete list of the functional areas used to categorize requirements in both documents.

Core Requirements Cross Reference

In the cross-reference tables that follow, all mandatory and value added requirements are presented. Individual requirements are identified by number only. To review requirement text, please refer to the 1999 or 2001 documents. The first table is in 2001 number order. A second cross reference table, sorted using the 1999 requirements numbering scheme follows starting on page 16.
