JAY KERRY FOOTLIK, white male, date of birth [REDACTED], place of birth [REDACTED], Social Security Account Number [REDACTED], home address, [REDACTED], home telephone number [REDACTED], Vice President, RUDER-FINN, was apprised of the official identities of the interviewing Agents and the nature of the interview. FOOTLIK was interviewed at the office of his attorney, DARREN BERNHARD, HOWREY & SIMON, who was also present for the interview. FOOTLIK provided the following information:

FOOTLIK graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA), School of Law, in December of 1994. In 1992, FOOTLIK worked in the Los Angeles office of the CLINTON/GORE Presidential Campaign. During 1992, FOOTLIK met MONICA LEWINSKY at a Century City Mall tie store, where LEWINSKY was employed. LEWINSKY gave FOOTLIK advise on ties and they spoke generally about politics. LEWINSKY asked for, and received, FOOTLIK's telephone number, and they stayed in sporadic contact.

FOOTLIK moved to Washington, D.C., after the 1992 Presidential Election. FOOTLIK worked on the Presidential transition under CRAIG SMITH. After the Inauguration, FOOTLIK worked for the Democratic National Committee in Washington, D.C. In August of 1994, FOOTLIK moved to the White House, in the Office of Presidential Personnel under CRAIG SMITH. FOOTLIK's interaction with LEWINSKY, up to this point, was sporadic.

At one point, in 1994 or 1995, LEWINSKY called FOOTLIK inquiring about internships at the White House. FOOTLIK advised LEWINSKY about the Intern Office in the White House. Sometime after LEWINSKY began her internship at the White House, LEWINSKY mentioned that WALTER KAYE had helped get LEWINSKY the internship. LEWINSKY also mentioned that someone in her family had a place at the Watergate Apartments, and that LEWINSKY would be staying there.

When LEWINSKY was an intern and a staff member, LEWINSKY would call or stop by FOOTLIK's office at the Old Executive Office Building (EOOB). FOOTLIK thinks LEWINSKY felt FOOTLIK was more of a friend than he felt of her. FOOTLIK did not socialize with LEWINSKY outside of work. FOOTLIK and LEWINSKY went to lunch a couple of times in the OEOB cafeteria.

Sometime after the assassination of Israeli Prime Minister YITZACH RABIN, LEWINSKY came to FOOTLIK and mentioned she had a Christmas present she wanted to give the President.

FOOTLIK suggested LEWINSKY send the gift through the regular inter-office mail. LEWINSKY was more insistent in giving the gift to the President in person. LEWINSKY asked FOOTLIK to walk her over to the West Wing, as she did not have a pass that would allow her to walk unescorted into the West Wing. FOOTLIK did not want to walk to the West Wing without an official purpose, so he kept putting LEWINSKY off.

Shortly thereafter, FOOTLIK had a reason to go to the West Wing. He told LEWINSKY this, and the two walked to the West Wing together. FOOTLIK wanted to give CLINTON a button that memorialized CLINTON's eulogy to RABIN. When LEWINSKY and FOOTLIK got to the West Wing, a birthday party was being held in the anteroom of the Oval Office. CLINTON was at the party, and FOOTLIK gave the button to CLINTON at that time. LEWINSKY then gave CLINTON the tie. FOOTLIK left CLINTON and LEWINSKY standing in the hall, as FOOTLIK mingled at the party. FOOTLIK visited at the party for a couple of minutes.

FOOTLIK then told LEWINSKY he had to get back to the OEOB, but LEWINSKY did not want to go. FOOTLIK felt obligated to escort her back because he had brought her to the West Wing. LEWINSKY acquiesced and left with FOOTLIK. FOOTLIK recalls the White House photographer being present when he was meeting with CLINTON, and believed a photograph existed of this meeting.

LEWINSKY seemed to enjoy her position at the Office of Legislative Affairs. Around the time of LEWINSKY's transfer from the White House, LEWINSKY called FOOTLIK very upset. LEWINSKY mentioned to FOOTLIK that she was perceived as being chatty or talkative. LEWINSKY never mentioned concerns about EVELYN LIEBERMAN. LEWINSKY never mentioned being described as a "stalker" or a "clutch." FOOTLIK remembers LEWINSKY mentioning her job at the Pentagon the day she told him she was being transferred. FOOTLIK was not surprised LEWINSKY was transferred.

After LEWINSKY left the White House, FOOTLIK had little contact with her. At one point, LEWINSKY asked FOOTLIK to dinner. FOOTLIK went to dinner with LEWINSKY to be nice. LEWINSKY mentioned her job at the Pentagon, the travel related to the job, and other general topics. LEWINSKY seemed to be happy at her job and never mentioned coming back to the White House.

In July of 1997, FOOTLIK met LEWINSKY, by chance, at the Pentagon City Mall. FOOTLIK and LEWINSKY spoke for approximately thirty seconds.

When the news about LEWINSKY broke in January of 1998, FOOTLIK called CRAIG SMITH at the White House and told him what he knew of LEWINSKY. A week or so later, DAVID KENDALL called FOOTLIK and interviewed FOOTLIK about the LEWINSKY matter. FOOTLIK advised the interview encompassed everything FOOTLIK has discussed in his interview with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), documented in this FD-302.

FOOTLIK never met KATHLEEN WILLEY.
