

Even using conservative assumptions for indirect compliance effects, IRS activities have generated tens of billions in additional revenue.

