

I am a linux user, and as a linux user, we have no way to play DVD movies on our operating system. We purchased the DVD's and all we want to do is play them. The motion picture association of america is wrong. We are not pirates. It would cost more to buy the DVD disks than to just go to a store and buy the movie. We should not be sued. All we want is to play the DVD's we purchased on the operating system of our choice.

Thanks,

Michael Campbell
