

Dear Government,

I'm sure you've gotten hundreds of letters from pitiful crybabies whining about the loss of their puny little freedoms to have access to information. Information is not a given right in the constitution. They have freedom of speech, not freedom of writing.

Maybe they are whining because their jobs depend on reverse engineering software to make sure that it is not doing anything unauthorized to their computers. Well boo-hoo. What these people have to realize is that unless tight controls are in place on them by the government or large corporations, anarchy will result.

Thank you,
