What is the Adjuster Preliminary Damage Assessment (PDA) form and how do we fill it out? [\[top\]](#)

The PDA form is used by independent and staff flood adjusters to list potentially substantial damaged structures in preparation for possible ICC claims. As of June 1, 2008, adjusters are required to fill out the PDA form using the web-based ezClaims Adjuster Console and PDA application. Click here to request access to ezClaims applications.

What is a Flood Disaster Office? [\[top\]](#)

When a major disaster hits causing a large number of flood claims, several types of temporary field offices may be established to coordinate flood insurance claims effectively and efficiently. These CCO and FRO offices, described below, are primarily for insurance companies, agents, and adjusters. Flood insurance policyholders should contact the insurance company or agent who wrote their policy to file a claim.

FRO - Flood Response Office

A FRO handles claims troubleshooting, provides pertinent catastrophe related information to the adjusting community and assists with community meetings. The office is established by the NFIP Bureau and Statistical Agent to efficiently coordinate with the private sector windpool associations, WYO companies, FEMA's Disaster Field Office (DFO), Disaster Assistance Centers, and FEMA's regional staff.
