

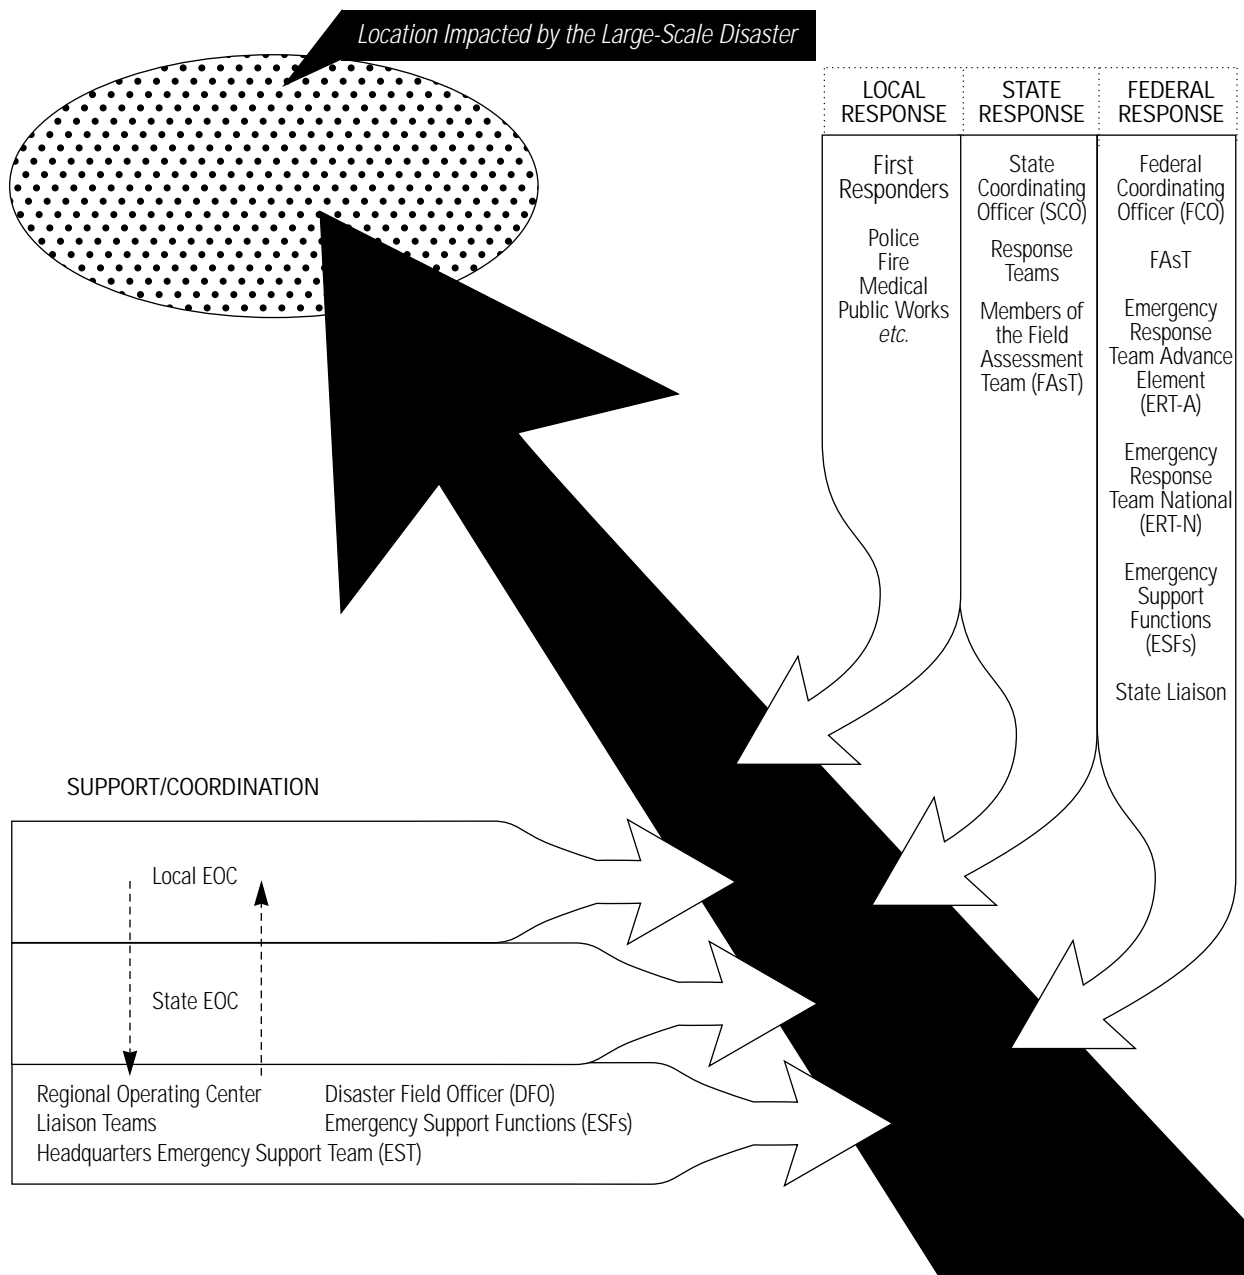

Figure 7-1: Emergency Response Coordination Roles in Large-Scale Disasters

NOTE: This figure reflects the typical flow of State and Federal response actions. It highlights the coordination activities involved in responding to a large-scale disaster. Initial response is made by the local government directly impacted by the disaster. State and Federal augmentation and support follows as the situation becomes clearer and resource needs are identified.