CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS 109th Congress (January 2005 - January 2007)

The Constitution prescribes Congressional apportionment based on decennial census population data. Each state has at least one Representative, no matter how small its population. Since 1941, distribution of Representatives has been based on total U.S. population, so that the average population per Representative has the least possible variation between one state and any other. Congress fixes the number of voting Representatives lelineate the apportionment. States delst boundaries. The first House of district boundaries. The first House of Representatives in there are 435 . members; currently there are from There are non-voting delegates Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Albers equal area projection

VIRGINIA

