Rebecca White is a Visual Information Specialist at the U.S. Government Printing Office. She works in the Creative Services department providing design support to the NDU and many other Federal Agencies.

Ms. White has over 17 years experience as an art director and designer. She has worked for the Federal Government for four of those years. In addition to her work on JFQ, Ms. White serves the design needs of many diverse agency clients including; recruitment kits for the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and the U.S. Capitol Police, identity and logo projects for the International Trade Administration and the 9-11 Commission, security design for the Social Security Administration and State Department, art books for the Senate Curator, and program materials for the National Park Service.

Prior to relocating to the Washington D.C. area Ms. White worked at several advertising firms in Minneapolis. While at HMS Partners she worked on Target TV commercials for seasonal promotions. At Kerker she worked on U.S. Bancorp Piper Jaffray and Ecowater. While at Morgan & Myers she worked on Pillsbury and 3M. Her experience covers a wide variety of projects; retail broadcast, direct mail, point-of-sale, package design, and product launches to name a few.

Rebecca has a BS-Art from the University of Wisconsin Madison. She studied art history and specialized in oil painting before moving into graphic design.
