Senior Chief Foster Nickle couldn't resist flying the Navy ensign over the Gulf Region North district compound the morning of Dec. 1, 2007, in honor of the upcoming Army-Navy game later in the day. Nickle is Operations NCO in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Gulf Region North district. He apologized (tongue-in-cheek) to his Army co-workers for the young Navy cadets' lack of humility in their 38-3 romp over West Point.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Gulf Region Division is augmented by engineer officers and noncommissioned officers from the other service branches for the reconstruction mission in Iraq, enhancing the Corps' ability to accomplish the mission, but leading to a fair amount of ribbing.
