DREDGING TO TEMPORARILY CLOSE SOUTH SIDE JOHN MARTIN RESERVOIR

The south end of John Martin Dam will close Oct. 29 through approximately Nov. 30 for a planned U.S. Army Corps of Engineers dredging project to enable construction of the spoils area for the dredged material.

Upon completion of the spoils area, the entrance at the south end of the dam will be reopened to provide public access to the west end of the south shore, but the east end will remain closed during the dredging project. Barricades will be in place to restrict access into the construction area. Estimated time for completion of this project is for the end of February 2009.

If you have any question concerning this closure please contact Tom Pryor or Steve Kinser at the Corps office at 719-336-3476.
