

Figure 1. When coyotes attack sheep or goats, they usually bite at the throat. The LP collar is an effective way to deliver chemicals selectively to depredating coyotes.

Figure 2. A coyote attacked this Angora goat at the rear, but did not puncture the LP collar. The goat had to be destroyed because of its injuries.