

Health Care Financing Review

Dear Subscriber:

Has your subscription to the Review expired? I thought that you might want another opportunity to continue to receive the latest developments and changes affecting the Medicare and Medicaid Programs and the U.S. health care system.

Many new health care financing and delivery issues are under discussion nationwide making relevant information surrounding these issues even more vital. The Review is meeting the challenges of today by continually expanding into new areas of research and development to better serve our audiences. We continue to highlight policy and analyses on the latest data, approaches, and opinions from leading researchers and economic experts who monitor changes to the Medicare and Medicaid Programs.

We're expanding in scope and depth, even more committed to timeliness in keeping you informed of today's latest changes and tomorrow's trends within the Federal, State, and local governments as well as the private sector.

By just printing and completing the online subscription order form , you will continue to receive the latest developments, changes, and challenges affecting the Medicare and Medicaid Programs and the U.S. health care system.

Sincerely,

Linda F. Wolf
Editor-in-Chief

P.S. If you have already renewed, thank you and please disregard this reminder. Your renewal is being processed by the U.S. Government Printing Office and your subscription service will be continued.