

J. G. McKee

50 CENTS
A YEAR IN ADVANCE
IS "IT."

IT.

READ "IT"
AND YOU'LL SURELY
LIKE "IT."

VOL. I. Lawrenceburg, Ky., Thursday February 19, 1903. NO. 15.

Need Painting.

Why is it that in most towns the telephone poles are painted and made to look like they had a right in the city, and were not a string of limbless cedar trees along a country hillside. In most every city of any size the city requires this done, and the telephone people are not in the least slow to comply with the law, for the painting of the poles protects them, and guarantees many more years of use. While we have become somewhat accustomed to their looks ourselves, to strangers it seems as though some one had neglected their duty.

City fathers, instruct your clerk to request this work done, and if the request is not complied with, then pass a city ordinance requiring it, and then make your request in the form of a demand.

It takes longer to get the mail from the depot to the post-office than it does for it to come from Versailles. It is a common thing to see the wagon that the mail is brought to the post-office in backed up in front of some business house delivering freight and express, while fifty or more business men stand anxiously waiting for their mail at the post-office.

This is much against Uncle Sam's orders, and a great inconvenience to the public in general.

Why should we print Stale plate matter, or use patent print, giving news a week old, when we can give you such a paper as the Cincinnati Enquirer and "IT," all for $1.25 a year.

You'll be wanting some stock cards printed pretty soon, and at the bottom of all those that are well printed you'll read

"IT" DID IT.

Use Bond's Cream Flour.

Dr. Charles Adam Leathers.

The subject of this sketch, Dr. C. A. Leathers, was born January 12, 1860, at Yolo, Cal., being a son of Valois and Rozema Leathers, who came to Anderson county in 1865, locating near Leathers' store. After attending the common schools of the county, Dr. Leathers entered the Kentucky Military Institute, from which he graduated with high honors in 1879. He at once them has been born one daughter, Miss Ruby, who is one of Lawrenceburg's most beautiful and accomplished young ladies.

In 1898 the Lawrenceburg Drug Company was incorporated, and Dr. Leathers, owning a controlling interest in the business, was made manager. Under his management the company prospered, and in July of last year he purchased the interests of the other stockholders, and became entered the Medical Department of the University of Louisville, graduating with the class of 1882. That was quite an eventful year in Dr. Leathers' life, for not only did he graduate in medicine, but came here, establishing a good practice, and succeeded in winning the hand of Miss Alice Waterfill, one of Anderson county's most beautiful young ladies, she being the oldest daughter of W. J. Waterfill, one of our most wealthy and highly respected citizens. To sole owner. Aside from his professional duties, and the time needed at the store, Dr. Leathers has found the time to do considerable manufacturing of face creams and cures for different ailments, for which there is a large demand. Dr. Leathers is a prominent Mason, and a strong advocate of a Business Men's Club to promote the interests of the town and county.

The photograph, from which the cut is here shown, was a kodak picture that was taken and finished by himse

Narrow Escape.

The afternoon passenger train from Lexington Sunday came near being wrecked in the long cut at Young's high bridge. Owing to the heavy fall of rain of Saturday and Sunday, a cave-in of the cut occurred, and had the engineer not had his train so well under control, a wreck that would have cost many lives would no doubt have occurred. As it was, the engine was quite badly smashed, and the steps of some of the cars torn from their fastenings.

Brakeman Killed.

John Lang, a brakeman on the Southern, while attempting to board his train at Busey, Friday night, fell under the cars and had both of his legs cut off, from which he died before reaching home. Lang was well known here among the railroad men, and quite popular. He was twenty years of age and single.

Mr. E. W. Ripy, last week, purchased of Mr. J. M. Johnson, Francis B., the fine three-year-old harness mare, which holds the record of never having been defeated in a ring, though she has been shown with the best ones in Central Kentucky since she was a weanling. Price, private.

Fine early Mastodon Seed Corn at one dollar a bushel, fifty ears to the bushel. Only a small amount to sell, so apply quick at this office for name of party selling it.

Mrs. M. Gividen has had painters and paper hangers busy for the past week beautifying her millinery store, that it may look its best when her spring line of goods arrive.

Never let your competitor know you have a competitor.