LAST WEEK:

FARM POLICY FIELD HEARINGS – The House Committee Agriculture held two farm policy hearings over the weekend. The hearing on Saturday was held in Memphis, Tennessee and Sunday, in Auburn Alabama. The Committee heard testimony from a total of 37 agricultural producers. There was general agreement among witnesses regarding the need for regulatory and tax relief, but their views varied on improving federal farm policy. The goal of the sessions has been to listen to agricultural producers' personal experiences and their suggestions for making federal policies more effective and responsive.

FREEDOM TO E-FILE MARKUP – On Thursday, March 23, the Department Operations, Oversight, Nutrition and Forestry Subcommittee (Chairman Goodlatte, R-VA) of the House Agriculture Committee held a hearing on the Freedom to E-File Act, H.R. 852. Chairman Goodlatte introduced a substitute amendment, which passed by voice vote. Under the bill, the Agriculture Department would establish an electronic filing and retrieval system to allow farmers electronic access to forms and filing capabilities. The bill also requires the Agriculture Department to electronically post information on farm programs, quarterly trade reports, economic and production reports. The Department is required to begin providing Internet access for certain forms 180 days after the bill's enactment. The Secretary of Agriculture would also be required to ensure that all agencies affected by the bill use compatible hardware and software, including the Farm Service Agency, the Risk Management Agency and the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Eva Clayton, N.C., the Subcommittee's Ranking Democrat, expressed concerns regarding funding to develop the online services. Mr. Goodlatte explained that the Department receives a $1.3 billion budget for information technology and past hearings have proven that money has not been well spent.

SENATE APPROVES CROP INSURANCE BILL – On Thursday, the Senate passed S. 2251 by a vote of 99-5. The legislation would increase the federal share of crop insurance premiums in order to help the farm economy and end the reliance on disaster aid. The bill will now go to conference with the House, which passed its version last September. Before final passage the Senators approved, by a vote of 99-1, to include an amendment by Paul Wellstone, D-MN to commend the farmers and families who came to the Capitol this week for the Rally for Rural Americans.

The bill also includes provisions that will make a conservation plan a contingency for participation in the crop insurance program.

The House and Senate bills both call for about $6 billion in spending to subsidize premiums from 2001 to 2004. The House version makes the government responsible for 31 percent to 67 percent of premiums, the Senate version calls for the government to pay 45 percent to 60 percent of premiums. Because the two bills are similar, Congressional staffs expect Conferees to swiftly produce a workable compromise draft.

WATER RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT ACT HEARING – On Wednesday, March 22, the Water Resources and Environment Subcommittee (Chairman Boehlert, R-NY) of the House Transportation Committee held a hearing on the Army Corps of Engineers (the Corps) proposed legislation for the Water Resources Development Act of 2000. Lieutenant General Joe N. Ballard, Chief of Engineers, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and Dr. Joseph W. Westphal, Assistant Secretary of the Army (Civil Works) were the primary witnesses. At the time of the hearing the Corps draft legislation had not yet cleared the Administrative review processes and was not yet ready for submission to Congress. Secretary Westphal assured the Committee that the legislation would be ready for submission to Congress no later than the first week of April.

LOOKING AHEAD:

FARM POLICY FIELD HEARINGS – House Agriculture Committee Chairman, Larry Combest (R-TX) and Ranking Member Charlie Stenholm (D-TX) have announced the schedule of farm policy hearings in 10 cities in regions from March through May, encouraging producers to submit detailed proposals for agriculture policy. Although each hearing may last for up to four hours, full discussion of producers' plans and Committee Members' questions will limit the number of witnesses who can testify at the hearings. Producers may be invited to offer testimony as a witness, or if not selected, producers may either submit specific views for the record, or e-mail informal comments to the Committee. To be considered as a potential witness at the hearing, producers should include information about their agricultural experience and their farming operations. The Committee will select witnesses who are qualified to provide specific testimony about federal farm policy, and answer questions posed by Agriculture Committee Members about policy alternatives.
