TELEPHONE CONVERSATION WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL BROWNELL

The Secretary telephoned him to add a word to their previous conversation on the Rosenberg case. He mentioned that Jean Monnet had volunteered the information that Spaak felt this was the most troublesome issue affecting relations between the United States and Europe. Spaak is a Socialist but a very able fellow and it adds some weight to the French comments. The Secretary said he did not think it should necessarily change our opinion but thought the Attorney General would like to know.
