SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The papers of Samuel Waugh span the years 1926 to 1969, but the bulk of the collection covers the period 1953 to 1961 when Mr. Waugh served in the Department of State and in the Export-Import Bank. The major themes covered by this collection are foreign economic policy, intra-governmental relations, and business-government relations.

Material from the period prior to and following the Eisenhower Administration consists primarily of speeches and articles written by Samuel Waugh and others, notably Charles de Gaulle, Wingfield Digby, and Frank Barnett. Included are Waugh's reminiscences of his experience in Washington, written after General Eisenhower's death. There are also a few Department of State and Export-Import Bank press releases, as well as conference reports. The remainder consists of travel memorabilia, correspondence from recipients of his reminiscences, souvenir programs, and greeting cards.

Mr. Waugh served for approximately two years in the Department of State as an Assistant Secretary and a Deputy Under Secretary specializing in foreign economic policy. From his years in the State Department, this collection contains three volumes of bound calendar books, an alphabetical record of callers, travel memorabilia, and copies of his speeches, articles, and congressional testimony.

In 1955 Mr. Waugh became president of the Export-Import Bank, a position he held until 1961. This collection contains daily reports, an alphabetical record of callers, lists of his congressional appearances and press interviews, copies of speeches, articles and testimony, and travel vouchers, as well as congratulatory messages and numerous thank-you letters.

Important material relevant to this period in his career falls into two categories. The first category consists of daily reports of callers and telephone conversations. In addition to recording who saw and/or talked to Mr. Waugh, these reports provide insights into the major decisions facing the Export-Import Bank, factors affecting these decisions, and general policy of the Bank. Entries also note the relationship between the Bank and the Department of State, World Bank, International Cooperation Administration, North Atlantic Council, Organization for Trade Cooperation, and private businesses seeking assistance from the government. A limitation on the usefulness of this portion of the papers is the fact that entries are fragmentary and brief. Therefore, this collection will be most useful when supplemented with other collections bearing on foreign economic policy (the Records of Joseph Rand, the Records of the U.S. President's Commission on Foreign Economic Policy, the Papers of C.D. Jackson).

The second category includes briefing papers and informal reports from the Milton Eisenhower mission to Latin America in 1958, Richard Nixon's South American trip, and Mr. Waugh's visit to India in 1958. The briefing papers yield information about the countries visited relevant to their applications for Eximbank loans.

In addition, this collection contains several certificates of appointment, a citation from Waugh's fellow employees, and twenty albums of memorabilia.
