

CANCER EPIDEMIOLOGY
IN OLDER ADOLESCENTS AND
YOUNG ADULTS 15 TO 29 YEARS OF AGE
INCLUDING SEER INCIDENCE AND SURVIVAL: 1975-2000

SUGGESTED CITATION:

Bleyer A, O'Leary M, Barr R, Ries LAG (eds): Cancer Epidemiology in Older Adolescents and Young Adults 15 to 29 Years of Age, Including SEER Incidence and Survival: 1975-2000. National Cancer Institute, NIH Pub. No. 06-5767. Bethesda, MD 2006.

Citation for a chapter should also include the chapter authors and chapter title.

This publication was prepared by:

The National Cancer Institute (NCI) Surveillance, Epidemiology and End Results (SEER) Program and the Children's Oncology Group (COG), with special assistance from the Adolescent and Young Adult (AYA) and Epidemiology Committees, volunteer editors and authors from the NCI, NCI-sponsored adult cancer cooperative groups (Southwest Oncology Group, Eastern Cooperative Oncology Group, Cancer and Leukemia Group B, National Surgical Adjuvant Breast and Bowel Program, American College of Surgeons Oncology Group), and NCI-Designated Comprehensive Cancer Centers.

Acknowledgments

The editors and authors would like to thank the National Institute of Health, the National Cancer Institute Grant CA 098543, Dr. Gregory Reaman and the Children's Oncology Group, the National Childhood Cancer Foundation, Dr. Karen Albritton and the COG Adolescent and Young Adult Committee, the AFLAC Insurance Company and the Pine Tree Apple Tennis Classic Oncology Research Fund for their generous support of this endeavor. We also thank the SEER-funded organizations for providing high quality cancer incidence and survival data for this monograph. We are grateful to Emily Place, Debbie Janey and other medical librarians for their assistance in gathering information vital to this monograph. Kristian Bjornard (i tempi moderni studios), Loretta Draths, and Milton Eisner (NCI) were instrumental in publication assistance.

Finally, our appreciation goes to the numerous oncologists and medical teams who care for those with cancer, and the many older adolescent and young adult cancer patients and survivors, their families, and their care providers—without whom this work would not have been possible or meaningful.
