Trails

Feather River Ranger District

Pacific Crest Trail (P.C.T.)

For management purposes the P.C.T. is split into four segments on the Feather River Ranger District. The segments are listed in a north to south direction. Total distance of P.C.T. on Feather River Ranger District is approximately 32 miles.

P.C.T. Fowler Peak Segment

Middle Fork of the Feather River to Black Rock Creek

Location - T22N R9E Sec17 MDBM

The trail crosses the Middle Fork of the Feather River by way of a bridge completed in 1980. It parallels Onion Creek for a short distance before starting the long climb out of the canyon. The trail climbs steadily, switchbacking occasionally, and continues to climb after crossing a ridge and going through an extensive stand of canyon live oak.

2.0 miles from the Middle Fork of the Feather River the Dogwood Creek Road is crossed. The trail continues to climb with frequent views of the Dogwood Creek Road and visual evidence of logging. Several abandoned logging spur roads are crossed. After 3.2 miles, the two lane dirt Sawmill Tom Creek Road is crossed.

On the next 2.2 miles the trail continues to climb following skid trails and abandoned spur roads with evidence of logging in view.

Finally, the trail stops climbing and meanders around the northeast side of Fowler Peak and then descends to the Black Rock Creek Road.

P.C.T. Chimney Rock Segment

Black Rock Road to Quincy-La Porte Road

Location - T22N R9E Sec15 MDBM

The trail follows an old four wheel drive road, staying on a ridge top the entire 7.3 miles of this segment. The four wheel drive road is posted "Closed". Roads are crossed at several sections. Vegetation consists of red fir with patches of manzanita. Views to the east and north are spectacular with some distant hydraulic mining scars visible.

P.C.T. Pilot Peak Segment

Quincy-La Porte Road to Johnsville-Gibsonville Road

Location - T22N R10E Sec9 MDBM

This section is 8 miles long. The trail climbs to Bunker Hill Ridge and then follows the ridge. Vegetation alternates between red fir stands and open rocky ridges with spectacular views. After crossing several roads, the trail leaves Bunker Hill Ridge with a slight descent skirting the northeast side of Mt. Etna (T22N R10E Sec26) in the vicinity of an old trail and mine. The trail utilizes an old ditch for several hundred yards before crossing a manzanita field and descending

P.C.T. Gibraltar Segment

Johnsville-Gibsonville Road to the A Tree

Location - T21N R11E Sec5 MDBM

This segment follows Nelson Creek across McCrae Ridge to the A Tree (T21N R11E Sec4), a distance of approximately 10 miles. Beautiful views on this whole segment.
