

The Earth's Systems and Dynamic Equilibrium

As long as the water level behind the beaver dam is constant or varies within limits, the beaver's ecosystem is in equilibrium. The water flow in from the stream must equal the water flow out of the dam. In the same way, the Earth will continue to emit into space as much energy as it receives from the sun.

