

11/08/01

Dr Stokes,

I was excited to hear that the use of lab animals for the LD50 Test may soon be a thing of the past! Please make every effort to completely replace lethal-dose testing on lab animals w/non-animal <sup>in vitro</sup> testing methods. To eliminate animal use for this test would be a great achievement for science and a relief for animal lovers every where.

Thank you for exploring other methods of research.

Thomasin E. Newell

