

Firewood permits

Permits for dead and down wood are issued for personal use for as few as two cords or as many as five cords per calendar year. The cost per cord is $10.

The personal use firewood permit covers most of the White Mountain National Forest, excluding active timber sales, developed recreation areas, designated Wilderness, and the Bartlett and Hubbard Brook Experimental Forests.

Please contact one of the following offices for more information about how to purchase a permit. Forest Service staff can offer suggestions about places to find wood when you obtain the permit.
