

Susan Sutherland, R.S.

Susan is a 1982 graduate from Bowling Green State University with a Bachelor's degree in Environmental Health. She has been working for the Delaware General Health District for the past 22 years in several different environmental health capacities. For the past three years, her position at the Health District has been the Assessment Coordinator for Environmental Health. Under her guidance, Susan facilitates 7 PACE-EH community collaborations that develop and implement annual action plans to address these environmental priorities: litter prevention, environmental education, county growth and development, and surface water quality.

Susan also manages the Health Education team who provide injury prevention education, and health promotion in the schools and the community.

Susan has been very active in her professional associations. She has served as President of the Ohio Environmental Health Association in 2000, and has been the Editor of the Ohio Journal of Environmental Health for the past three years.
