I think it is time to stop putting the burden on Banking Industry. We do not have time to communicate with our customers or do our work required for filling out so much paper work.
If the government wants all this information they need to come up With a standard form like the HUD I form with all the information they want banks to have on file from each customer.
This way everyone would be required to provide the same information.

We are just drowning in paper more now than before.
