Dear Kevin:

Enclosed is a copy of correspondence I have received from Allison King. The attached communication is submitted for your consideration. The proposed changes to the Community Reinvestment Act (CRA) regulations would reduce lending, investments, and banking services in low and moderate-income communities and have a direct impact to clients of the Kansas City Housing Authority.

The Kansas City Housing Authority Section 8 homeowners are direct beneficiaries of the CRA. Without it, most of them would never have qualified for mortgage loans. They are building equity and moving toward true self-sufficiency. However, under the proposed changes a thrift could earn CRA points by providing community development financing and services to affluent neighborhoods thus neglecting low and moderate income areas. I would appreciate it if you would review the enclosed letter and provide me with any information in writing that would address our constituent's concerns.

Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter. Please feel free to contact me at 785-842-9313 if you have any questions regarding this issue. Upon receiving your letter, I will forward a copy of your response to the constituent. Congressman Moore is grateful for any assistance you may be able to provide our office.

Very truly yours,

Becky Fast

Regulation Comments
Chief Counsel's Office
Office of Thrift Supervision
1700 G Street NW
Washington, DC 20552

Attention: No. 2004-53

To Whom It May Concern:

The Housing Authority of Kansas City, Kansas would like to take this opportunity to comment on the Office of Thrift Supervision's notice of proposed rulemaking concerning Community Reinvestment Act (CRA) regulations. We oppose the proposed changes because they would reduce housing- community development-related lending in low- and moderate-income communities and allow federally chartered thrifts to design their own watered-down CRA exams and invest in affluent areas with no CRA penalty.

The purpose of the CRA is to increase lending, investment, and banking services in lower income areas, both urban and rural. Current regulations assess thrifts via a three-part examination that comprises lending, investment, and services tests. This proposal would allow large thrifts with over $1 billion in assets to effectively eliminate the investment and service tests and derive nearly their entire grade from the lending test. This would allow large thrifts to neglect critical community needs, such as the lack of affordable housing, without fear of reprisal. These banks and thrifts have the capacity and the responsibility to meet all needs, not pick and choose among them.

If the investment test is eliminated, thrifts will have a substantially reduced incentive to finance the development of affordable rental housing through the use of Low Income Housing Tax Credits. Thrifts will also have fewer incentives to finance small businesses via equity investments. Reduced investment in projects and businesses will be accompanied by fewer bank branches and services in low and moderate-income communities. Scaling back the number of activities in low- and moderate-income communities will result in less housing and community development activity and place these areas at a distinct disadvantage compared to more affluent areas. This is contrary to the very essence of CRA.

Message

The proposal also would enable thrifts to earn CRA points by providing community development financing and services in affluent neighborhoods ostensibly to reduce burden and provide greater flexibility. Indeed burden will be reduced if thrifts are no longer required to invest in low- and moderate-income areas or serve low- and moderate-income individuals. However, the reason CRA exists is to ensure that community development lending and investments are made specifically in these areas to benefit lower income people; lending that would otherwise not occur.

Taken as a whole these proposed regulations will hurt the very communities CRA was enacted to protect. CRA has been the driving force behind increased lending, investment, and banking services in what were underserved communities. Efforts to weaken these protections will turn back the clock on communities like Kansas City, Kansas that are striving to revitalize neglected neighborhoods. For these reasons, our community is opposed to this proposal and urges you to withdraw it immediately.

Thank you for providing the opportunity to comment on this notice of proposed rulemaking.

Kindest regards,

Thomas W. Stibal, Executive Director
