

From: BugPugMom [bugpugmom@yahoo.com]
Sent: Wednesday, January 19, 2005 10:17 AM
To: Comments, Regs
Subject: Community Reinvestment Act

This is what The NewYork Times has to say about changing the Community Reinvestment Act regulatons:

Banks should not be allowed to jettison community reinvestment responsibilities ... in the quest for profit. If these new regulations are allowed to stand ... Communities could eventually find themselves back in the dark ages of redlining and financial isolation.

New York Times
August 21, 2004

I completely agree with them. This travesty should not be allowed.

Penny Roberts

~~~~~
~~~~~

Beelzebug (n.): Satan in the form of a mosquito that gets into your bedroom at three in the morning and cannot be cast out.

Do you Yahoo!?
Read only the mail you want - Yahoo! Mail SpamGuard.