

Jonathon Russell

Jonathon is a senior at University City High School. For the past several years Jonathon has worked on several projects related to improving school and community nutrition. After helping run the University City High School garden and farmers' market for two years, Jonathon has recently turned his attention towards launching a healthy food mobile cooperative in Philadelphia.