This supplemental request would provide funds to support the U.S.-Israel Binational Research and Development (BARD) program. BARD provides peer-reviewed, competitive grants to fund agricultural research of interest to both the United States and Israel. Funding for the BARD is derived from the earnings of an endowment fund established by the two countries. Lower than anticipated interest rates in recent years have reduced the level of support available for research. The United States and Israel have each committed to providing an additional $2.5 million in 1996 to supplement earnings from the endowment to support high priority research. Funds requested through this supplemental would provide the support to honor the U.S. commitment.

This proposal was submitted to the Congress by the President on March 5, 1996.

This supplemental request would ensure that resources are available to fully support the current meat, poultry and egg inspection systems in 1996, and begin implementation of plans to modernize those systems at the earliest possible time. Funds would support 100 additional "other than permanent" staff years to provide full inspection coverage consistent with industry growth. Funds would also train inspectors in Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP) technology, which is the basis for the modernization of the agency's inspection system; pilot-test HACCP-based inspection systems; and engage with the States in small HACCP demonstration projects. In addition, funds would finance activities supporting a "farm-to-table" continuum of pathogen reduction. This includes animal epidemiological studies and efforts that would reduce the incidence of pathogenic contamination at the production level through voluntary projects with States and producer organizations.

This proposal was submitted to the Congress by the President on March 5, 1996.

This supplemental request would provide funds to liquidate obligations incurred pursuant to the contract authority provided in 49 U.S.C. 5338(b) for the Discretionary grants program. This program is experiencing an accelerated rate of expenditure for several reasons. Beginning in 1993, funds earmarked in appropriations acts for discretionary bus and new start projects were provided a three-year period of availability, after which they would be redistributed to other projects if they had not been obligated. This has had the effect of accelerating the use of earmarked funds. In addition, recent appropriations acts rescinding unused earmarks have encouraged grantees to use their earmarks faster. A third factor contributing to the accelerated expenditures is the advance drawdown policy that was implemented administratively by the Federal Transit Administration in June, 1992. This policy allows the 80 percent Federal share to be expended before the 20 percent local share, rather than concurrently.

This supplemental request would permit the Federal Government to meet its legal obligation to reimburse States and localities for work already done.
