

Comptroller of the Currency
Administrator of National Banks

US Department of the Treasury

Biographies

Zane D. Blackburn
Chief Accountant,
Office of the Chief Accountant

Mr. Blackburn is the chief accountant of the Office of the Chief Accountant for the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC).

Mr. Blackburn is responsible for policy formulation and deliberations with financial institutions and other agencies on bank accounting issues. He also represents the OCC on the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council's Reports Task Force. Additionally, he serves as the banking agencies' observer on the AICPA's Allowance for Loan Losses task force.

Zane began his career with the accounting arm of Ernst & Young. After serving six years with Ernst & Young, he joined the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Upon completing six years with the SEC, two years were spent at the U.S. Department of Energy with the Financial Reporting Systems Project.

In June 1981, he assumed his current position. Mr. Blackburn graduated from the University of Maryland with a bachelor's of science in accounting. He is also a Certified Public Accountant and a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountant.

