

IFC Policy on Disclosure of Information

The US abstained on this policy on February 21, 2006. It contains language that is not consistent with our legislative mandate (the Pelosi Amendment), and could thus impose ex ante constraints on our vote on individual projects. The US prefers to evaluate projects on the basis of their respective merits without such constraints. Moreover, the policy does not provide for disclosure of individual project outcomes.