INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING THE INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT PLAN (IDP) (MAY BE HANDWRITTEN OR TYPED)

TO BE COMPLETED BY EMPLOYEE

PART I:

Enter appropriate data

PART II:

Briefly describe your goals for your current position. If you wish, include goals for future positions in which you have an interest. Seek your supervisor's advice on goals that would help you maintain/improve your performance in your current position. Obtaining advice from your supervisor on future needs and programs of the Agency will enable you to develop more realistic future goals.

TO BE COMPLETED BY SUPERVISOR AND EMPLOYEE:

PART III:

List development that you and your supervisor agree will improve your performance in your current position and for future positions as permitted by Agency policies/training funds. If the Agency cannot afford to address a need but you want to address the need on your own time, you should write "SD" (for self-development) to the left of the need. "No development needed" may be entered if you and your supervisor agree that no development is currently needed.

Developmental Needs:

List needs as knowledge, skills, or abilities (KSA's) to be acquired or developed, such as knowledge of cash flow analysis, writing skills, or the ability to prepare interoffice correspondence. Prioritize the needs by putting a "1" to the left of the most important need, "2" to the left of the next most important need, etc.

Developmental Activities:

List the activity that best meets the developmental need, for example:

Self-Instructional

 Such activities might include completing Computer-Based Instruction, or a video tape course at work.

On-The-Job Training Cross training, task force assignments, special projects, shadow/ rotational assignments, details or temporary service with other Federal appender.

Coaching or Mentoring An employee selects a senior employee or someone whom he/she admires and views as a role model, and seeks that person's advice on progressing in his/her current career field or changing career fields.

Self-Development

Such activities might include taking evening or weekend courses at local schools, using correspondence and other individualized courses, reading books and other publications or journals, or attending and actively participating in professional or technical societies, civic activities, or advisory boards.

Formal Training

 Classroom training such as job specific training (e.g., ACS Induction training, or Credit and Financial Analysis), or general skills training (e.g., effective writing, stress management, or supervisory/managerial training).

COSTS:

List estimated expenses for each activity listed. Include costs for travel, tuition, books, and other materials

PART IV:

You and your supervisor will sign and date after first completing the IDP and initial and date when the IDP is reviewed annually. Between annual reviews, the IDP can be used to record completion of planned developmental activities, deletion/addition of activities, changes in planned completion dates, and as a starting point anytime you and your supervisor need to discuss your development.
