I believe the "USA Beef" and "Fresh American Beef" definitely should tell the consumer it has been ~~raised~~ raised, slaughtered and process in the United States. Too many products carry a "made in the USA" label when only the final process has been done here - the rest has all been overseas.

You go into a grocery store and they used to have "raised in " and the country of origin was not stated. I, personally, am tired of not knowing where something came from, especially something I put into my body.

Thank you
