Dear Nancy,

I, for one, do not like being told that I do not know how to take care of my own health. It is about time that the FDA listen to consumers rather than politics. I do not like taking pharmaceutical creations to cure disease; they are poison to the body. I would much rather use herbal medicinals. I do not like the ones in capsules. They have been tampered with by human hands. I prefer using the herb itself; I find that I get even better results with an added benefit of there being no side effects.

Yes, it is true there are those who should not use certain herbs. However, that should be between the patient and the physician. The FDA has no business messing around with people's health. LEAVE THE HERBAL MEDICINALS ALONE, please.

Sincerely,
Ms. Jayce Kimbrough
