To Whom This May Concern:

I am writing to ask that no revision be made to the Vitamin and Mineral Supplement position. In this day and age of people seeking prescription drugs, remaining healthy for the rest of us involves being active in caring for ourselves. This means seeking supplements to poorly grown commercial produce. As a person interested in the health field (MS in Natural Health, working on PhD) I would never consider going to an MD or dietician who know nothing about real health. I remain healthy because of these available additions to my diet. It is not the government's area of expertise, please leave it to those of us who have studied this field, whether in advanced courses or daily reading. Thank you for your consideration and time.

Sincerely,
Renita Herrmann
