Moderate flooding of the Patoka River occurred. At the Princeton gage, the April river crest was 21.74 feet on the 1st. Flood stage at Princeton is 18 feet. Farm fields and woodlands were flooded. Since planting season was not underway when flooding began, there was little if any crop damage.

The Patoka River gradually subsided after reaching major flood stage in late March. Much drier conditions during the latter half of April allowed the river to fall.

A young girl drowned in floodwaters on Highway 855 between Frances and Salem shortly before sunrise. The child was a passenger in a vehicle driven by her mother. The vehicle plunged into about eight feet of water that was over the road at a creek crossing. The vehicle immediately began floating, and both the mother and child exited. The mother lost her grip on the child, and the child immediately went under water. A boat was used to locate the child within ten minutes. Rescue workers retrieved the child, who was caught up in debris or tree limbs in about eight feet of water. The child was given CPR and rushed to a local hospital, where she was pronounced dead. The area is known to flood by local residents, and it was marked by an orange high water sign. The mother was new to the area and likely unfamiliar with the flooding problems there. About 5.5 inches of rain had fallen the night before the drowning. Countywide, numerous roads were covered with water. Several roads were closed for a few days, including Highway 120.

Behind the levee break, water up to three feet deep covered a 15 to 20 square mile area. State Highway AA and many county roads were impassable. At least one house on Route AA was flooded again. A shelter was opened for evacuees in the path of the floodwaters. About 50 homes along Highway AA and nearby county roads were notified to evacuate. The flooding from this levee break was much less severe than the original break that occurred during the March 18 record flood. Numerous low-lying fields and bottomlands were underwater. Farmland south of Poplar Bluff was flooded.

The last in a long series of river flooding events occurred. This flooding was due to a round of thunderstorms with heavy rainfall.

Strong surface high pressure brought near freezing air into southeast Missouri. Nearly calm winds allowed frost to form. The frost ranged from patchy to widespread, depending on the topography of the surrounding area. The heaviest and most widespread frost was in valleys.
