

 Transition
SANTA CRUZ
Presents

What is the Future
of Local Food?

Fri, Jan 30
7-9pm

I  Farms Slide Show
with Tana Butler

- Ildi Carlisle-Cummins, Community Alliance w Family Farmers
 - Jim Cochran, Swanton Berry Farm
 - Mark Lipson, Organic Farming Research Foundation
 - Deborah Yashar, ALBA
- Moderator: Michael Olson
Food Chain Radio

$5-15

Sat, Jan 31, 10-4

• Community Workshops:
Strategies for Food Resilience through Re-localization

Free event
RSVP for $10 lunch
www.transitionsc.org
427-9916

Both Days at United Methodist Church
250 California St
Santa Cruz

Co-sponsors:
 Ecological Farming Association

 Ecology Action

 California Certified Organic Farmers

The burgeoning "Eat Local" movement is building our community's economic resilience at the same time as it contributes to our health. With the end of the era of cheap fossil fuels, the choice of consumers to Eat Local strengthens local farmers, local stores and restaurants.

The connection between health issues such as child obesity and the marketing strategies of food mega-corporations is beginning to be understood. This event explores the next steps in moving towards a re-localized food system.