AFGP will issue approximately 5,500 awards worth nearly $600 million in direct assistance to firefighters and first responders throughout the country, demonstrating Homeland Security's commitment to ensuring that America's firefighters have the resources they need to protect their communities.

“These awards are critical to ensuring our nation’s firefighters have the necessary resources to save lives and keep their communities safe,” said Tracy A. Henke, Executive Director of the Office of Grants and Training (G&T).

This twentieth round of fire grants provides $3,169,437 to help local fire departments and emergency medical services programs to purchase or receive training, first responder health and safety programs, equipment and response vehicles.
